

3A-152 DIESEL ENGINE

THE 3A-152 ENGINE (Refer Figure 1)

The 3A-152 diesel engine is, as its nomenclature suggests, a 3-cylinder unit with a capacity of 152 cuh. in. (2.5 liters). This engine, by virtue of its combustion chamber design and nozzle location, combines the advantages of direct and indirect injection types.

This section is concerned with engine removal, overhaul and re-installation and, where applicable, includes reference to special fastening recommendations. Note that reference is made exclusively to the base engine only, as the various components of the cooling, electrical and fuel systems are dealt with elsewhere in this Manual.

An important and often neglected aspect of engine restoration work is the necessary for absolute cleanliness. Many cases of unsatisfactory performance and short engine life, following re-starting, can be directly attributed to inadequate attention to cleanliness.

It is considered prudent to mention that the continued use of an engine due for overhaul can be neither satisfactory nor economic, and cannot justify the increasing risk of total failure and additional repair charges.

The repair instructions covered within this section assume that the engine has been removed from the tractor.

Reference to left and right hand should be interpreted as seen from the driving seat.
