Around two months ago, Jane Yue-Chi Hwang told me the story of her and her family's immigration from Taipei, Taiwan to the Birmingham, Alabama. Her story was extremely interesting and included Jane's recollections of her unique experiences in addition to those experiences that are shared by many other Asian immigrants. In this paper, I will analyze the major push and the major pull factor that prompted Jane and her family, as well as many other Asian immigrants, to immigrate into the United States. Because Jane and her family immigrated from Taiwan, I will focus on factors specific to Taiwanese emigration and both the historical and modern experiences of Asian American immigrants. In addition to analyzing these factors, I will also investigate the ways in which these factors have both challenged and upheld racial structures in the United States. In our interview, Jane stated that the major push factor that prompted her family, as well as thousands of other Taiwanese people, to leave Taiwan in the 1970s was the political instability of Taiwan. Taiwan's political instability had multiple frightening consequences, with one of the most terrifying being the fear of an invasion. After what was called the 228 Incident, the Taiwanese people's perception of Taiwan as a politically unstable country grew significantly. Because of their common languages and similar ancestral ethnic backgrounds, Taiwan and the Taiwanese people had always considered China to be a "mother country" and an ally that Taiwan could rely on. Because China was such a large and established country, being able to rely on China gave Taiwan, which was small country with little power at the time, a sense of political stability and protection against threat. However, this "mother country" relationship between Taiwan and China was completely challenged after the 228 Incident (Shiao-Feng, 2004). This incident began on the morning of February 27th, 1947, when Chinese agents beat a woman to death for selling smuggled cigarettes on the street. The Taiwanese people responded to the excessive and extreme cruelty of this incident with a series of protests and riots. In an attempt to control the situation, leaders of the Chinese Nationalist Party, or the KMT, sent Chinese troops to exert military control over Taiwan. During this period of military control, individuals who had participated in the riots and rebellions were arrested and killed. In addition, many laborers, social elite, intellectuals, and thousands other people were arrested and killed without reason. In total, over 10,000 people were killed during the 228 Incident (Shiao-Feng, 2004). After this incident, China aggressively attempted to take absolute control over Taiwan with the "One China" policy, which stated that both Taiwan and mainland China were parts of China, discouraging and falsifying a separate Taiwanese national identity. After China's claiming of Taiwan with this policy, many Taiwanese residents began to perceive the Chinese Nationalist Party as a major occupying force to be feared, and the feeling of terror began to grow in Taiwan. As Taiwan slowly began to lose its independence to China, its space in the United Nations was also threatened. Soon the question of whether Beijing was a better representative of China...
