
How to Write an Effective Visual Analysis of a Work of Art

Visual analysis is an exercise in close observation. Sometimes called “formal analysis,” this type of art historical writing is a thorough analysis of the formal (having to do with form) characteristics of a work of art. The goal is to deepen the reader’s understanding and appreciation of the work.

Instructions

Write a visual analysis of a work of art. Assume that your readers are curious and intelligent, but know nothing about this particular work of art. How will you help them “see” it better?

Step 1. Choose a work of art.

Select something that sparks your imagination! Pick an object that you find beautiful, thrilling, disturbing, ugly... Is there a work that prompts questions, that makes you want to learn more? If so, it’s probably a good choice!

Step 2. Look. Then, brainstorm.

Prepare to spend at least 10 minutes looking at this work of art. Write down everything you see; you’ll be surprised at how much goes unnoticed unless you record it on paper.

Make a sketch. Even if you think you have no artistic talent, sketching can be a remarkably effective tool to help you “see” a work of art in a new way. You are not expected to discuss every visual aspect of the work in your paper, but at this stage you must weigh all the evidence before you decide which elements are the most important. Brainstorm.

Step 3. Organize and compose your draft.

Now, think about how to organize and express your ideas in the most effective way possible. You may wish to compose an outline. Assume that you are writing for a general audience, interested and intelligent, but lacking extensive knowledge of art history—much as if you were giving a gallery talk to introduce the viewer to the object. Your analysis should be organized into two paragraphs.

At the top of the page, fully identify the title of the work, the artist (if known), the date, medium, and current location. For example:

Democritus the Great

Originally in the location of Macedonia and Chios; now in Paris, France. Name: Democritus in the Palazzo dei Conservatori Rome

Medium: hard marble # 8" high
Imperial Roman, ca. 100-200 CE
