Life Science September Trial Exam Paper Two For 2014:

Diverse Excursions in the Southeast: Paleozoic to Present Ann E. Holmes, 2015-03-09 This volume contains field guides to the 2015 GSA Southeastern Section Meeting's field trips. The guides explore geologic history and visit four regional geologic provinces: the Nashville dome, Blue Ridge Valley and Ridge, and Cumberland Plateau. Pharmaceutical Industry and Public Policy in Post-reform India Reji K. Joseph, 2015-07-24 This book examines the impact of economic reforms in India on the pharmaceutical industry and access to medicines. It traces the changing production and trade patterns of the industry, research and development (R&D) preferences and strategies of Indian pharmaceutical firms, patent system alongside pricing policy measures and their shortcomings. It also analyses the public health financing system in India, driven largely by out-of-pocket expenditure about 60 per cent and characterised by a very high share of medicines in total health expenditure. A masterful insight into a topical area, the work will be indispensable to those working on pharmaceutical industry and public policy. It will be of interest to researchers, scholars, students, and policy makers of economics, industrial policy, public policy, intellectual property rights, and health financing. Touch Screen Tablets Touching Children's Lives Joanne Tarasuik, Gabrielle Strouse, Jordy Kaufman, 2018-02-28 Touch screen tablets have greatly expanded the technology accessible to preschoolers, toddlers, and even infants, given that they do not require the fine motor skills required for using traditional computers. Many parents and educators wish to make evidence-based decisions regarding young children's technology use, yet technological advancements continue to occur faster than researchers can keep up with. Accordingly, despite touch screen tablets entering society more than 5 years ago, we are in the infancy of research concerning interactive media and children. The topic has gained traction in the past couple of years. For example, theoretical papers have discussed how interactive media activities differ from physical toys and passive media (Christakis 2014) and how educational apps development should utilise the four pillars of learning (Hirsh-Pasek et al 2015). Yet there has been little experimental research published on young children and touch screen use. Women in Industrial and Systems Engineering Alice E. Smith, 2019-09-13 This book presents a diversity of innovative and impactful research in the field of industrial and systems engineering (ISE) led by women investigators. After a Foreword by Margaret L. Brandeau, an eminent woman scholar in the field, the book is divided into the following sections: Analytics, Education, Health, Logistics, and Production. Also included is a comprehensive biography on the historic luminary of industrial engineering, Lillian Moeller Gilbreth. Each chapter presents an opportunity to learn about the impact of the field of industrial and systems engineering and women's important contributions to it. Topics range from big data analysis to improving cancer treatment to sustainability in product design to teamwork in engineering education. A total of 24 topics touch on many of the challenges facing the world today, and these solutions by women researchers are valuable for their technical innovation and excellence and their non-traditional perspective. Found within each author's biography are their motivations for entering the field and how they view their contributions, providing inspiration and guidance to those entering industrial engineering

Losing Eden Lucy Jones, 2021-08-03 A fascinating look at why human beings have a powerful mental spiritual and physical need for the natural world and the cutting edge scientific evidence that proves nature is nurture A powerful and beautifully written survey of the latest scientific research into the vast range of benefits to our minds bodies and spirits when we do things outside Anthony Doerr Pulitzer Prize winning author of All the Light We Cannot See Lucy Jones interweaves her deeply personal story of recovery from addiction and depression with that of discovering the natural world and how it aided and enlivened her progress giving her a renewed sense of belonging and purpose Jones writes of the intersection of science wellness and the environment and reveals that in the last decade scientists have begun to formulate theories of why people feel better after a walk in the woods and an experience with the natural world She describes the recent data that supports evidence of biological and neurological responses the lowering of cortisol released in response to stress the boost in cortical attention control that helps us to concentrate and subdues mental fatigue and the increase in activity in the parasympathetic nervous system slowing the heart and allowing the body to rest The connection between mental health and the natural world turns out to be strong and deep which is good news in that it offers those feeling soul sick the possibility that falling in love with the world around them might be remarkably helpful Bill McKibben Beautifully written movingly told and meticulously researched An elegy to the healing power of nature A convincing plea for a wilder richer world Isabella Tree author of Wilding

Emotion and Aging: Recent Evidence from Brain and Behavior Natalie Ebner, Håkan Fischer, 2015-05-05 Emotions play a central role in every human life from the moment we are born until we die They prepare the body for action guide decisions and highlight what should be noticed and remembered Since emotions are central to daily functioning and well being it is important to understand the extent to which aging affects the perception of attention to memory for as well as experience and regulation of emotions An early scientific view of how people's emotions are affected by aging argued that aging led to a deterioration of emotional function This theory represented by for example Carl Jung 1875-1961 claimed that old age is a period of life when people feel an increased emotional sameness and less emotional energy According to this scientific view the aging emotional landscape was bleached barren and flattened Current psychological research however shows that emotion is rather a psychological domain that is relatively unaffected by the aging process or even improves with age in contrast to most cognitive functions For example even though there is evidence that aging is associated with deficits in emotion recognition various emotional functions seem to remain intact or become better with age such as the ability to regulate one's emotions or the extent of experiencing positive emotions However more research is needed to determine brain and behavior related quantitative and qualitative age related changes of different aspects of emotion processing and emotional functioning In the current Frontiers research topic we aim to present exciting new findings related to the effects of healthy aging on both more perceptually driven bottom up as well as more cognitively driven top down aspects of emotions In particular questions such as the following need to be raised and addressed What neural and behavioral processes are underlying age differences in emotion perception and memory for emotional information Are there differences between how older and younger adults experience and regulate their emotions and what drives these differences Is there a gradual reduction or more of a qualitative change of our emotional experiences over the life cycle from the turbulent childhood and youth to the mellower old age And what aspects of age related changes in emotional processing can be explained by age related changes in the brain and which are more affected by other factors such as changes in other body systems in experiential processes or in overall life goals
