Part 1 deals with both the generation of petroleum by the thermal breakdown of kerogen and the expulsion of the petroleum from the source rock. Part 2 considers secondary migration, the processes which control petroleum behaviour during its movement through relatively permeable carrier beds from the mudrock sequences which contain source intervals to the reservoir in the structural culmination of the carrier bed or other trap. Part 3 contains case studies which show how understanding of generation, expulsion and secondary migration can be used to explain the distribution of oil and gas in a basin and therefore to predict the nature of the petroleum in an undrilled prospect. Part 4 examines leakage from accumulations.
