

Graduation speech at Oxford Brooks University Business School, September 7

Governor, Vice Chancellor, family and friends of the graduates and above all,

Dear graduates

I consider it a great honour to be invited to speak to you today. At the same time it is a great responsibility.

Ideally I should tell you something that you will remember for a while – and that you can tell your grandchildren in 30 or 40 years from now. When I talked to my grandchildren recently about my own graduation ceremony I had to confess that I did not remember anything other than the handing over of the document. Not sure if I can avoid this embarrassment to you – it is an uphill battle taking into account the Ebbinghaus forgetting curve: much of what is being heard is forgotten within a day....the odds are against me.

Today marks an important day in your lives – yet, it is a beginning of a journey.

To get to this point was an important achievement in itself to which I commend you. The personal competencies that got you here – passion, commitment, tenacity, open minds to learn – will be important throughout your lives. Nurture them. They will be even more important than what you have learned.

When I graduated from the faculty of law in Vienna just a couple of years ago (rather a couple of decades ago.....) the world was quite different. It looked predictable, stable, a career was pre-ordained, all indicators pointed upwards.

My second employer was IBM and when I joined it was like joining a family for the remainder of ones professional life – and indeed, I stayed for 32 years. You felt the commitment that the company was taking towards you in every step. One was taken care of – from a sports club, to culture, health insurance and pension.

Peter F. Drucker, one of the great thinkers of the 20th century (the Economist stated that he was not only a great management thinker but one of the greatest thinkers of the last century) pointed some 40 years ago to a sea change in the our society – he demonstrated that we are moving from a more protective and cosy employee society towards a more challenging and demanding entrepreneurial society. This does not mean everybody is an entrepreneur, but it means that wherever you stand (even when employed by a company) you have to act in an entrepreneurial spirit. It means that the social compact is changing and that you take responsibility for yourselves.

Should you be worried about this? Should you regret the gradual vanishing of the “golden cages” that corporations and public sector organizations were so great in building?

I frankly don't think so. But you better get ready. Change is upon us and it is accelerating. Drucker was the master in bringing things to the point – “you cannot manage change, you must get ahead of it” – first in your minds and then in your practice and your lives.

Hence my message to you is not a feel-good message but a message of truth and encouragement.

Graduation Speeches From Mother To Daughter:

Because He First Loved Me Tonja Jackson,2017-04-05 A true story of a young insecure girl dealing with the harsh realities of life Told with humor and pain Personal tragedies and disappointments Learning to trust the goodness of the Lord and allowing him to transform her into a courageous woman of faith Because He First Loved Me is a story of salvation redemption forgiveness and restoration

My Road to Radio and The Vocal Scene George Jellinek,2015-01-09 Born in Ujpest Hungary in 1919 George Jellinek began his musical career playing violin with gypsies in the family s garden restaurant He spent his adolescence doing much the same honing his talent and enriching his own musical education with frequent trips to the Hungarian Royal Opera House But when Hitler and Chamberlain signed the Munich Pact in 1938 Jellinek s quiet life was shattered How the exiled teenager survived World War II worked his way up from a poor Hungarian immigrant in Cuba and became one of the most important and influential musical administrators in New York is an unconventional but truly American success story This memoir documents the inspiring life of George Jellinek beginning with his childhood in his beloved Hungary The crisis of World War II soon invaded his life and leaving behind his family and homeland he fled west Having been finally allowed to enter the United States he was drafted into the U S Army in 1942 obligated to bear arms against the country of his birth This ironic turn of events culminated in his firsthand role in the capture of Ferenc Szalasi the leader of Hungary s Hitlerite faction The latter half of the book reveals how music helped Jellinek piece back together his broken life in America After rising to the post of musical director for radio station WQXR he went on to become the producer and host of The Vocal Scene His 36 years with that program established it as a revered fixture of New York s opera life The epilogue documents the day on which Hungary s president bestowed upon Jellinek the Knight s Cross of the Order of Merit of the Republic of Hungary

Listen: How Child and Student Voice Can Change the World Siobhán Keenan Fitzgerald,2024-08-01 Article 12 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child UNCRC 1989 articulates every child s right to have their voice heard in matters that affect them Yet acceptance of this right is sometimes slow and there are barriers to effective implementation This vitally important book aims to accelerate acceptance of this right by bridging the gap between theory and practice empowering adults to act as advocates and facilitators of children using their voices within our homes schools and wider communities Divided into thirteen chapters Listen invites readers to connect the concept of child and student voice meaningfully with the development of all children s physical voices and modes of communication Topics explored include but are not limited to Current research on student voice including an examination of public speaking within primary schools Advocating for a school wide focus on supporting student voice Best practice and pedagogical approaches to facilitating public speaking in the classroom The benefits and drawbacks of debate including how to use it appropriately and assessing when to employ other techniques Creating a supportive learning environment where students may overcome their anxieties about public speaking An essential read for parents teachers teaching assistants and senior leaders Listen proposes a pedagogical approach to supporting student voice that is backed by current research yet firmly rooted in practical application Following Polly Karen Bergreen, 2010-06-15 Would you call Alice Teakle a stalker Or just someone with an um healthy obsession with golden girl Polly Linley Dawson No one much notices Alice not her boss not the neighbors not even her Mother Besides everyone follows Polly her business selling high end lingerie you can imagine only her elegant self wearing her all over the social pages marriage to movie director Humphrey Dawson her chic looks her wardrobe Alice just follows her a little more closely And when she loses her job and starts to follow Polly Dawson one Manhattan autumn afternoon Alice stumbles on the object of her attention sprawled dead on the floor of a boutique Alice is forced to become truly beneath anyone s notice Invisible in fact Because she s accused of murder But can another obsession help save Alice with the fallout Charlie is Alice s longtime unattainable crush He might be able to help her out of the mess she s in in return for a favor or two that is And how will Alice find out if Charlie is really the man Alice thinks he is
