Neural Dynamics of Neurological Disease Christopher A. Shaw,2017-02-15 The emerging understanding of age related neurological disorders suggests that notions of a single causal gene toxin being responsible is likely incorrect Neurological disorders probably arise due to a unique intersection of multiple genetic and toxic factors combined with additional contributions of age stage of development immune system actions and more This perspective leads to the view that rather than reflecting only one pathway to end state disease each is a spectrum disorder and every individual case is therefore unique Neural Dynamics of Neurological Disease argues for a fundamental rethinking of what we think we know about neurological disorders how they arise and progress and crucially what might be done to cure them It first introduces the concept of neural dynamics of neurological disease then examines various diseases and gives examples of the interplay of elements such as neural systems cell types and biochemical pathways that can contribute to disease The concluding chapters point the way to how the emerging notion of neurological disease as a dynamic process may lead to more successful

R. Redclift,2002 In the post Cold War era the pre eminent threats to our security derive from human degradation of vital ecosystems as well as the possibility of war and terrorist attack This substantial book examines this new security environment paradigm and the way in which the activities of societies are shifting the balance with nature The distinguished authors investigate this redefinition of security with particular reference to environmental threats such as climate change and the availability of adequate supplies of food and water They illustrate how unfettered economic growth rising levels of personal consumption and unsustainable natural resource and energy procurement are taking a heavy toll on the global environment This in turn is forcing both developed and developing countries to re evaluate the more immediate environmental security of their own populations For a truly global perspective the authors present a series of country case studies looking at issues of security and environment and comparing how they influence policy and human well being They also discuss a number of theoretical issues which underpin discussions of environmental security demonstrating that this is a relatively new and essentially contested concept This thought provoking book highlights the way in which both security and sustainability are being reworked as concepts and are being linked increasingly to social economic and cultural factors It will be of great interest to academics researchers and students in environmental management sociology geography international relations and politics The American Journal of Clinical Nutrition ,2000 Haunted Nature Sladja Blazan,2021-12-08 This volume is a study of human entanglements with Nature as seen through the mode of haunting As an interruption of the present by the past haunting can express contemporary anxieties concerning our involvement in the transformation of natural environments and their ecosystems and our complicity in their collapse It can also express a much needed sense of continuity and relationality The complexity of the question who and what gets to be called human with respect to the nonhuman is reflected in these collected chapters which in their analysis of cinematic and literary representations of sentient Nature within the traditional gothic trope of haunting bring together history race postcolonialism and feminism with ecocriticism and media studies Given the growing demand for narratives expressing our troubled relationship with Nature it is imperative to analyze this contested ground Chapter 6 is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4 0 International License via link springer.com
