We see objects when light from that object enters our eyes. Some objects produce their own light, while others transmit or reflect light. The Subtractive Colors Gizmo allows you to explore how light is absorbed and reflected by colored pigments such as paint.

Three primary colors of light—red, green, and blue—combine to make white light. Turn on Show RGB values at the mouse location to see how much red, green, and blue is in each color.

1. Move the cursor over a white area.

What is the RGB value of white?

2. Move the cursor over the cyan circle.

What is the RGB value of cyan?

3. Assume the cyan circle is a painted spot that is illuminated by white light. Some of the white light is absorbed by the cyan pigment, and some is reflected into your eyes.
