Advancing Equity Planning Now Norman Krumholz, Kathryn Wertheim Hexter, 2019-01-15 What can planners do to restore equity to their craft Drawing upon the perspectives of a diverse group of planning experts Advancing Equity Planning Now places the concepts of fairness and equal access squarely in the center of planning research and practice Editors Norman Krumholz and Kathryn Wertheim Hexter provide essential resources for city leaders and planners as well as for students and others interested in shaping the built environment for a more just world Advancing Equity Planning Now remind us that equity has always been an integral consideration in the planning profession The historic roots of that ethical commitment go back more than a century Yet a trend of growing inequality in America as well as other recent socioeconomic changes that divide the wealthiest from the middle and working classes challenge the notion that a rising economic tide lifts all boats When planning becomes mere place making for elites urban and regional planners need to return to the fundamentals of their profession Although they have not always done so planners are well positioned to advocate for greater equity in public policies that address the multiple objectives of urban planning including housing transportation economic development and the removal of noxious land uses in neighborhoods Thanks to generous funding from Cleveland State University the ebook editions of this book are available as Open Access volumes from Cornell Open cornellpress.cornell.edu/cornellopen and other repositories

Reframing Police Education and Freedom in America Martin Alan Greenberg, Beth Allen Easterling, 2023-09-15 This book untangles the components of police education and advocates a robust community based training model with significant civilian oversight The recommended approach recognizes that the citizenry needs to be included in the provision of basic police education for it is they who must both support and be served by their police The police must be role models for society demonstrating that freedom and rights come with obligations both to the community as a whole and to individuals in need within that community Ultimately the quality of police training and the public's safety depend not only on the leadership of police executives as well as the quality of educational institutions and police candidates but also on the building of a community's trust in its police The issues of police recruitment education and retention have greater consequence in an era when protests and other signs of negativity surround law enforcement Several incidents including most notably George Floyd's murder by police have sparked new training initiatives regarding police de-escalation and community engagement At the same time the proliferation of gun violence and a contentious political climate have led some officers to refrain from undertaking proactive types of policing In this context reform of the police education system is urgent This book examines police training at all levels of government local regional state and federal In addition citizen participation programs including the role of the media and programs for furthering law related education LRE are highlighted The proposed police education model recognizes that ordinary members of the American public need to contribute to the provision of basic police education for it is they who must both support and be served by their police The focus is on teaching a guardian style of policing at the local level Police education would combine higher education necessary practical proficiencies and intensive field experiences through a gradual level of greater responsibility likely extending over a 2 plus year period for trainees with less than a year of previous college credits This book will be of interest to a wide range of audiences such as law enforcement professionals and trainers including those in executive development programs in police departments community leaders scholars and policy experts who specialize in policing concerned citizens and students of criminal justice especially those interested in police organization and management criminal justice policy and the historical development of police

Authoring Autism M. Remi Yergeau, 2018-01-05 In Authoring Autism M. Remi Yergeau defines neurodivergence as an identity neuroqueerness rather than an impairment Using a queer theory framework Yergeau notes the stereotypes that deny autistic people their humanity and the chance to define themselves while also challenging cognitive studies scholarship and its reification of the neurological passivity of autistics They also critique early intensive behavioral interventions which have much in common with gay conversion therapy and questions the ableist privileging of intentionality and diplomacy in rhetorical traditions Using storying as their method they present an alternative view of autistic rhetoricity by foregrounding the cunning rhetorical abilities of autistics and by framing autism as a narrative condition wherein autistics are the best equipped people to define their experience Contending that autism represents a queer way of being that simultaneously embraces and rejects the rhetorical Yergeau shows how autistic people queer the lines of rhetoric humanity and agency In so doing they demonstrate how an autistic rhetoric requires the reconceptualization of rhetoric's very essence
