The LDX-3500B Series Laser Diode Drivers are a family of low noise high stability current sources specifically for precision control of low to high power laser diodes. Three models with a full scale output current range from 200 mA to 6A operate in constant current or constant optical power modes to cover a wide range of laser diode testing and control applications. In addition to precision current control, the LDX-3500B Series drivers also feature photodiode current measurement for constant power control, analog modulation for power and wavelength tuning, and an analog output for remote monitoring.

All of ILX Lightwave's proven laser diode protection strategies are designed into each model, which include adjustable current limits, shorting relays, slow turn-on circuits, and transient protection during power up and laser operation.

The front panel was designed for quick and easy operation. Parameters and instrument modes are grouped without confusing multi-function keys or menus. Informative error indicators such as open circuit and current and power limit let you resolve set up and operating problems quickly.

The USB interface and control software allows for fast, repeatable instrument control during R&D and manufacturing testing and other automated control applications.
