Prior Knowledge Questions (Do these BEFORE using the Gizmo.)

1. Label one of the skulls below as human and the other as a chimpanzee skull.

2. What features did you use to identify which skull was human and which was chimpanzee?

The chimpanzee has a longer skull and larger jaw bone.

Gizmo Warm-up

In 1924, a fossilized skull that looked very similar to a chimp skull was discovered. But the skull most definitely did not belong to a chimp. The location of the foramen magnum—a hole in the skull where the spinal cord exits—indicated that the individual was bipedal, or walked on two legs. This fossil was some of the earliest evidence of human evolution. Using the Human Evolution – Skull Analysis Gizmo, you will discover some of the ways that skulls can be used to learn about human evolution. Start by comparing two modern hominids: a human and a chimpanzee.

Then,

1. Examine the Front view of the Homo sapiens (modern human) skull. use the Select skull menu to examine the same view of the Pan troglodytes (chimp) skull.

How do the skulls compare?

The human skull has a smaller jaw, smaller teeth, and a larger forehead. Chimpanzees also have a larger nose.

Human Evolution John L. Bradshaw,2014-01-02 The last decade has seen an explosive burst of new information about human origins and our evolutionary status with respect to other species We have long been considered unique as upright bipedal creatures endowed with language the ability to use tools to think and introspect We now know that other creatures may be more or less capable of similar behaviour and that these human capacities in many cases have long evolutionary trajectories Our information about such matters comes from a diverse variety of disciplines including experimental and neuropsychology primatology ethology archaeology palaeontology comparative linguistics and molecular biology It is the interdisciplinary nature of the newly emerging information which bears upon one of the profoundest scientific human questions our origin and place in the animal kingdom whether unique or otherwise which makes the general topic so fascinating to layperson student and expert alike The book attempts to integrate across a wide range of disciplines an evolutionary view of human psychology with particular reference to language praxis and aesthetics A chapter on evolution from the appearance of life to the earliest mammals is followed by one which examines the appearance of primates hominids and the advent of bipedalism There follows a more detailed account of the various species of Homo the morphology and origin of modern H sapiens sapiens as seen from the archaeological palaeontological and molecular biological perspectives The origins of art and an aesthetic sense in the Acheulian and Mousterian through to the Upper Palaeolithic are seen in the context of the psychology of art Two chapters on language address its nature and realization centrally and peripherally the prehistory and neuropsychology of speech and evidence for speech and or language in our hominid ancestors A chapter on tool use and praxis examines such behaviour in other species primate and non primate the neurology of praxis and its possible relation to language Encephalization and the growth of the brain phylogenetically and ontogenetically and its relationship to intellectual capacity leads on finally to a consideration of intelligence social intelligence consciousness and self awareness A final chapter reviews the issues covered The book of around 70 000 words of text includes over 500 references over half of which date from 1994 or later
