Gettysburg Address

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth to this continent a new birth of freedom, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether these principles are really true. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a national cemetery. It is fitting that we should do this.

But, in a larger sense, we can dedicate - to this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, and we are gathered here to dedicate it. We cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, and we are gathered here to dedicate it. We cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, and we are gathered here to dedicate it.
