

GATTACA Assignment Are your Genes your Destiny?

GATTACA is a film that shows a future society that is based on the rigorous assessment of everyone's potential. This population of elite individuals in this society are genetically manipulated to have just those few highest achievement genes that maximize potential across each individual's life-span. (I know it sounds like pretty gross. Reproduction isn't fun & it's pretty unpleasant, so why? It's a necessary step towards a more advanced population in efficiency and other traits over the generations.)

How does this relate to your course? I think it relates to your behavior, genetic (and/or) epigenetic predispositions in the right context of culture & education over generations that show how it might work in fact. (Genetics is just a predisposition and the environmental factors could give a mixed gene result and provide structure. How could it be different? With the cultural/epigenetic differences you could suggest different behaviors for what the individual's predisposition is showing. The overall population characteristics of your population that help you think about the right or best behavior.)

You must provide your argument in a short paper. I suggest the classic, 5-paragraph, short story or an alternative and the development of a strong logical priority, writing, and organization. Please write with your student as your audience in mind.
