

Step 1: Understand the Lippincott Clinical Judgment Exam (LCJR)

What It Tests	How It Works	How to Prepare
Clinical judgment, prioritization, decision-making	Based on NCSEB's Clinical Judgment Measurement Model (CJMM)	Focus on patient safety, nursing process, red flag recognition, and response
Prioritization of care (sickest first)	Often scenario-based	ABCs, Maslow, Safety, Infection Control
Nurse's action in a scenario	What to assess, what to report, what to teach	Think "What would I do first as a nurse?" not "What would the doctor do?"
Evidence-based, safe, patient-centered care	May involve charts, labs, orders, patient statements	Interpret lab results, meds, and vitals in context

Step 2: Use the Clinical Judgment Model (CJMM)

Lippincott questions follow 6 layers of decision-making:

1. Recognize Cues: What data matters?
2. Analyze Cues: What's going wrong?
3. Prioritize Hypotheses: What's the most likely issue?
4. Generate Solutions: What can I do?
5. Take Action: What's the best immediate nursing intervention?
6. Evaluate Outcomes: Did it work?

Step 3: Study Smart — Not Just Hard

Do This	How
Master Red Flags	Use red flag charts (like from your Maternal-Newborn Toolkit) — same logic applies
Know Critical Lab Values	Especially: K+, Na+, Hgb/Hct, WBC, ABGs, glucose, creatinine
Review Common Conditions	CHF, COPD, Pneumonia, DKA, Stroke, Sepsis, AKI, GI Bleed
Know Key Meds	Lasix, insulin, nitro, heparin, digoxin, opioids, antibiotics
Learn Safety/Delegation	Know what UAPs/LPNs can and cannot do
Think "Who Dies First?"	Practice prioritizing: unstable, post-op, red flag changes
