Lived Time Phenomenological And:

Lived Time Eugene Minkowski, 2019-06-17 Eugene Minkowski's Lived Time articulates a phenomenology of time that is as inspired by the philosophical writings of Henri Bergson and Edmund Husserl as it is by the psychiatric descriptions of Eugen Bleuler. After providing a phenomenological description of the experience of time in normal life, Minkowski considers a number of mental illnesses including schizophrenia, manic depression, and dementia, and he attempts to show that these pathological cases can be characterized in terms of a distortion of lived time and space. First published in French in 1933 as Le temps vécu, this edition of this classic work of phenomenological psychiatry and psychopathology includes a new foreword by Dan Zahavi that presents some of Minkowski's main ideas and discusses his contemporary relevance. Topologies of Fear in Contemporary Fiction Scott McClintock, 2015-07-21 The central concern of the book is the impact of global terror networks and state counterterrorism on twentieth-century fiction. A unique contribution of this book is the comparative approach as opposed to the single author focus of most of the edited collections on terrorism in literature.

Phenomenology World-Wide Anna-Teresa Tymieniecka, 2014-11-14 Phenomenology is the philosophy of our times. Through the entire twentieth century, this philosophy unfolded and flourished following stepwise the intrinsic logic and dynamism of its original project as proposed by its founder, Edmund Husserl. Now its seminal ideas have been handed over to a new era. The worldwide contributors to this volume make it manifest that phenomenological inspiration knows no cultural barriers. It penetrates and invigorates not only philosophical disciplines but also most of the sectors of knowledge, transforming our way of seeing the world, our actions toward others, and our lives. Phenomenology's universal spread has, however, oftentimes diluted its original sense, even beyond recognition, and led to a weakening of its dynamics. There is, at present, an urgent need to retrieve the original understanding of phenomenology to awaken its dormant forces and redirect them. This is the aim of the present book: resourcement and reinvigoration. It is meant to be not only a reference work but also a guide for research and study. To restore the authentic vision of phenomenology, we propose returning to its foundational source in Husserl's project of a universal science, unpacking all its creative capacities. In the three parts of this work, there are traced the stages of this philosophy's progressive uncovering of the grounding levels of reality: ideal structures, constitutive consciousness, the intersubjective lifeworld, and beyond. The key concepts and phases of Husserl's thought are here exfoliated. Then, the thought of the movement's classical figures and of representative thinkers in succeeding generations is elucidated. Phenomenology's geographic spread is reviewed. We then proceed to the culminating work of this philosophy: the phenomenological life engagements so vigorously advocated by Husserl to the life-significant issues. Phenomenology addresses and to how it has enriched the human sciences. Lastly, the phenomenological project's new horizons on the plane of life are limned: horizons with so powerful a draw that they may be said not to beckon but to summon. Here is the movement's vanguard. This collection has 71 entries. Each entry is followed by a relevant bibliography. There is a

Valle, Rolf von Eckartsberg, 1981 As we move into the 1980s there is an increasing awareness that our civilization is going through a profound cultural transformation At the heart of this transformation lies what is often called a paradigm shift a dramatic change in the thoughts perceptions and values which form a particular vision of reality The paradigm that is now shifting comprises a large number of ideas and values that have dominated our society for several hundred years values that have been associated with various streams of Western culture among them the Scientific Revolution of the seventeenth century The Enlightenment and the Industrial Revolution They include the belief in the scientific method as the only valid approach to knowledge the split between mind and matter the view of nature as a mechanical system the view of life in society as a competitive struggle for survival and the belief in unlimited material progress to be achieved through economic and technological growth All these ideas and values are now found to be severely limited and in need of radical revision Time, Death, and Eternity Richard James Severson, 1995-09-06 In Book XI of the Confessions Augustine claims that time has its beginning and ending in eternity In Being and Time Heidegger claims that death is the ultimate futural possibility for authentic human existence These two texts one from the fourth century the other from the twentieth century depict two very different perspectives on what limits the human conception of time Can these perspectives be reconciled Severson offers a new reading of the Confessions that affirms Augustine's religious quest for understanding while taking into account the constraints of modern criticism

Person-centred Nursing Research: Methodology, Methods and Outcomes Jan Dewing, Brendan McCormack, Tanya McCance, 2021-04-26 This book is the first ever to offer a contemporary collection of different perspectives on person centredness in international doctoral nursing research. The research in the book is based on the ideas and values of personhood and person centeredness which have been used and can be seen to guide research approaches, inform research designs and theorize research findings. Further, a specific framework for person centred nursing is embedded throughout the research studies presented in the text. The Person centred Nursing Framework (PCNF) developed by Brendan McCormack and Tanya McCance in 2010 is recognized as a nursing theory and this book further develops it as a basis for research and for advancing person centredness in nursing. The framework informs all stages of the research process from design through to dissemination. The book is structured into a number of highly engaging chapters written by doctoral candidates and recently graduated candidates. The opening and closing chapters written by the editors place the subsequent chapters in a global context of person centredness and nursing. The potential for person centred nursing research to be a global movement is recognized and debated. The subsequent chapters lead readers through philosophical ideas, methodologies and methods whilst also offering reflective and honest insights into learning how to become a person centred researcher. This field is growing and developing but yet there is no specific book available. As a result, researchers spend considerable time and effort translating existing research methodologies into person centred perspectives. This book fills this gap and acts as a key resource for future nurse researchers. The text is intended for and benefits nursing doctoral candidates, masters candidates and academic staff who teach and supervise research candidates; it may also appeal to other graduate learners. The book has international contributions which makes it appealing internationally.

The Soul Knows No Bars Drew Leder, 2000. The Soul Knows No Bars is a unique book co-authored by Drew Leder and inmates at the Maryland State Penitentiary. Taking off from the texts by Foucault, Nietzsche, Heidegger, Buber, Cornel West and others, the men speak of the impact within their lives of power, violence, sexual and racial identity, incarceration and the liberation of spirit possible even in a maximum security cell.

Crosscurrents in Phenomenology R. Bruzina, Bruce W. Wilshire, 1978-07-31. One of the greatest and oldest of images for expressing living change is that of the movement of waters. Rivers, particularly in their relentless motion in the constant searching direction of their travel in the confluence of tributaries and the division into channels by which identity is constituted and dispersed and once more reestablished, have stood as metaphors for movements in a variety of realms: politics, religion, literature, thought. Among philosophic movements, phenomenology and existentialism are discernible as one such movement of ideas analogous in configuration to the flow of a river in its channel or network of channels. The course taken by the stream of phenomenology and existential philosophy in North America is easily seen from the contents of the six volumes.

of collected papers from the annual meetings of the Society for Phenomenology and Existential Philosophy that have preceded the present selection. What soon becomes clear in general and is evident as well in the present volume is that phenomenological and existential philosophies are far from being homogeneous; they are far from showing an identity as to the sources from which they derive their energy or the themes that they carry forward toward clarification. And yet there is a confluence, a convergence of orientation, sympathy, and conceptuality. INTRODUCTION 4. SO that problematics harmonize and complement and mutually enrich.
