

Chapter 11

Issues of Reporting and Disclosure

Questions for Review and Discussion

1. The law confers on financial accountability — the primary government either directly a voting majority of the unit's governing body, or a majority of the unit's governing body is composed of primary government officials and:
  - a. the primary government is able to prepare or will upon the principal instrument and so
  - b. there is the potential for the organization to generate specific financial benefits for its citizens specific financial benefits for the primary government.
2. Effective government is when one or both competing sides are required to separate resources after their participating in the primary government. Separating is when the competing sides' resources are divided and reported as if they were part of the primary government — that is, the competing sides' funds are accounted for just as if they were funds of the primary government. Separating is required when the primary government and the competing sides are controlled by government funds having the same members as the government and therefore operate under the primary government's set financial conditions and had satisfied their financial obligations to report it.
3. Effective government, as it must be applied to government-wide accounts, allows for the aggregation of one number of different categories into aggregate of type and basis of accounting. Therefore, it is said, the government is evenly aggregated entities in total value. The problem is mitigated by the requirement of disclosure that all that the government publicly disclose financial information about each of its report component units.
4. The three main sections of the FASB are:
  - a. mandatory section
  - b. illustrative section
  - c. statistical section

The main components of the illustrative section are:

  - a. auditor's report
  - b. management's discussion and analysis (MD&A)
