

Introduction to Pharmacology

Listed below are some of the terms you should be familiar with for the exam. The list concentrates on the drugs and drug categories that will be covered on the exam. I have tried to categorize the drugs according to the diseases that they are prescribed for, and which systems the diseases affect. However, many drugs can be prescribed for completely different diseases. For example, many anti-cancer drugs are really antibiotic or antiviral. I have done the best that I can to organize these for you, and where there are clearly more than one use, I have put them in the "other" category. Remember that you will also need to know the names of hormones, neurotransmitters and other compounds in the body that these drugs work on that are not on this list.

NEURO

DRUGS FOR MOVEMENT DISORDERS

Leva-dopa (L-Dopa): commonly used for Parkinson's disease; a chemically modified form of dopamine that can cross the blood brain barrier where it converts to dopamine then goes to the basal ganglia. L-dopa converts quickly into dopamine prior to entering the brain, so high doses are required for therapeutic effect, may be neuroprotective

Carbidopa: when combined with Leva-dopa (combo called Sinemet), it prevents the conversion of L-dopa into dopamine so more L-dopa reaches the brain; allows lower doses of L-dopa and less side effects

Sinemet: combination of Leva-dopa and Carbidopa (refer to two drugs); Major side effects include nausea, abnormal muscle tone, tremors, confusion, hallucinations, cardiac arrhythmias, hypotension and dyskinesia (PD)

Amantadine: Parkinson's; usually given with L-Dopa to facilitate release of endogenous dopamine (other drugs like it bromocriptine aka parlodel, pergolide aka permax); side effects include: orthostatic hypotension, depression, hallucinations, nausea, vomiting, confusion and insomnia

Selegiline (Deprenyl): antioxidant used for Parkinson's; inhibit monoamine oxidase, preventing the breakdown of dopamine; limit the level of free radicals in the area, may be neuroprotective

Rasagiline: antioxidant used for Parkinson's disease; approved by FDA in 2008

DRUGS FOR EPILEPSY

Barbiturates (ex. phenobarbital): used to treat epilepsy, anxiety, insomnia; bind to the GABA receptor to open chloride channels (decrease neuronal firing); main side effect is sense of sedation and may cause uncoordinated movements; very low therapeutic index; best used for partial and generalized tonic-clonic seizures

Phenobarbital: barbiturate prescribed for all seizure types. Primidone is converted into phenobarbital. See barbiturates

Benzodiazepine (ex. Diazepam aka Valium, Klonopin): drug of choice for anti-anxiety drugs (also insomnia, epilepsy); potentiate the effects of GABA; inhibitory drug that hyperpolarizes the neuronal membrane; side effects: sedation, ataxia,
