Short Answer Questions

1. Explain the concept of risk pooling in health insurance.

Risk pooling is the process of combining the risks of many individuals into a single pool, so that the financial burden of any one individual's illness is shared by the entire group. This is the fundamental principle of health insurance.
2. Explain the concept of self-insurance in health insurance.

Self-insurance is a form of health insurance where the individual or a group of individuals (such as a company) sets up a fund to pay for their own medical expenses. This is often used by large corporations to provide health insurance for their employees.
3. Explain the concept of social insurance in health insurance.

Social insurance is a form of health insurance where the government or a social organization (such as a union) provides health insurance for its members. This is often used to provide health insurance for low-income individuals and the elderly.
4. Explain the concept of mutual insurance in health insurance.

Mutual insurance is a form of health insurance where a group of individuals (such as a group of workers) pool their resources to provide health insurance for themselves. This is often used by unions and professional associations.
