Mathematics Classrooms in Twelve Countries David Clarke, Christine Keitel, Yoshinori Shimizu, 2006 This book reports the accounts of researchers investigating the eighth grade mathematics classrooms of teachers in Australia China the Czech Republic Germany Israel Japan Korea The Philippines Singapore South Africa Sweden and the USA This combination of countries gives good representation to different European and Asian educational traditions affluent and less affluent school systems and mono cultural and multi cultural societies Researchers within each local group focused their analyses on those aspects of practice and meaning most closely aligned with the concerns of the local school system and the theoretical orientation of the researchers Within any particular educational system the possibilities for experimentation and innovation are limited by more than just methodological and ethical considerations they are limited by our capacity to conceive possible alternatives They are also limited by our assumptions regarding acceptable practice These assumptions are the result of a long local history of educational practice in which every development was a response to emergent local need and reflective of changing local values Well entrenched practices sublimate this history of development The Learner s Perspective Study is guided by a belief that we need to learn from each other The resulting chapters offer deeply situated insights into the practices of mathematics classrooms in twelve countries an insider s perspective Handbook of Accessible

Talking about Tests United States. National Education Goals Panel, 1998 Principles and Practices of Performance Assessment Nidhi Khattri, Alison L. Reeve, Michael B. Kane, 2012-12-06 This volume explores the recent national trend toward adoption of performance assessments Embraced at all levels of educational decision making state district school and teacher the shapes these assessments take and the affects they have at the classroom level can differ significantly from one setting to another Based on case studies of 16 schools this study describes what performance assessments actually look like the types of tasks they pose to children the scoring methods used the purposes to which they are put and how they fit in with other components of assessment systems It also shows how they differ when they are introduced by state departments of education districts and schools themselves Factors that affect policymakers and educators abilities to successfully design and introduce performance assessments are also explored These include the purposeful coordination of performance assessment with related education reforms such as the adoption of content and student performance standards and the professional development for teachers necessary to the successful implementation of performance assessments Barriers to adoption most notably the challenges of developing a technically sound performance assessment are discussed as well Crucial to teachers ability to appropriate performance assessments for use in their own classrooms is their involvement in designing and implementing them Although it would be impossible for a state or school district to involve all teachers in the design of a performance assessment they can take steps to foster teachers understanding of the purposes and methods of the assessment thereby supporting their ability to use similar methods in their daily teaching Toward that end this book describes the experiences of teachers and students with a range of assessments that all fall under the umbrella of performance assessment In addition it provides rich illustrations of those experiences across a diverse group of schools descriptions of the trade offs inherent in developing a student assessment system demonstrations of why no single assessment can be all things to all people and valuable insights for teachers administrators policymakers and researchers who want to improve their understanding of how performance assessments work in practice and how they may best serve to improve teaching and learning
