Hotpoint First Edition:

Service Not Included Suzanne Speak, Stephen Graham, 2000 The privatisation and streamlining of many of Britain's essential services has left less affluent neighbourhoods and social groups with limited access to private services. Service not included looks at access to energy, telecommunications, financial services and food retailing in two marginalised neighbourhoods: Benwell in Newcastle upon Tyne and Netherly Valley in Liverpool. The authors of this report argue that these private sector services must be considered essential for full participation in contemporary society and failure to recognise their importance will undermine current regeneration strategies and lead to the further exclusion of our most disadvantaged neighbourhoods. This is the first such study to look in detail at the problems faced by residents in areas experiencing significant withdrawal of private services. The report identifies the extent and effect of the withdrawal of private sector services in the two case study areas, explores the difficulties which arise from being considered high risk, low profit customers and the coping strategies used by the excluded, considers policy options and ways to bridge the gaps that exist between the socially excluded and often inaccessible private sector services. Based on interviews with over 40 households and a number of focus groups, as well as quantitative evidence on private sector restructuring and service use, Service not included is invaluable reading for all those involved in area regeneration, policy making and anyone interested in the impact of the private sector on socially excluded communities and area regeneration strategies. Everyman's Science Daniel Russell Hodgdon, 1919 Elementary General Science Daniel Russell Hodgdon, 1918 Elementary English, Spoken and Written Lamont Foster Hodge, Arthur Lee, 1928 Consumer Goods Europe, 1999 Sunset, 1966 Electrical Engineering, 1917 Culinary Landmarks Elizabeth Driver, 2008-04-05 Culinary Landmarks is a definitive history and bibliography of Canadian cookbooks from the beginning when La cuisinière bourgeoise was published in Quebec City in 1825 to the mid twentieth century. Over the course of more than ten years, Elizabeth Driver researched every cookbook published within the borders of present day Canada, whether a locally authored text or a Canadian edition of a foreign work. Every type of recipe collection is included, from trade publishers' bestsellers and advertising cookbooks to home economics textbooks and fund raisers from church women's groups. The entries for over 2,200 individual titles are arranged chronologically by their province or territory of publication, revealing cooking and dining customs in each part of the country over 125 years. Full bibliographical descriptions of first and subsequent editions are augmented by author biographies and corporate histories of the food producers and kitchen equipment manufacturers who often published the books. Driver's excellent general introduction sets out the evolution of the cookbook genre in Canada, while brief introductions for each province identify regional differences in developments and trends. Four indexes and a Chronology of Canadian Cookbook History provide other points of access to the wealth of material in this impressive reference book. *P.J. & A.E.
