Using Chinese Classics for Intercultural Communicative Competence Jinai Sun, Xuehua Xiang, Li Ye, 2024-08-05 Using Chinese Classics for Intercultural Communicative Competence presents new strategies and tools for integrating Mandarin language teaching with fostering intercultural competencies through contemporary global lenses on Chinese classic texts. Chinese classic texts are canonical works in Chinese culture published before 1911. They offer a window into deeply held cultural values which learners of the Chinese language would benefit from studying to facilitate meaningful intercultural dialogues. With chapters covering classic Chinese texts such as Journey to the West, Dream of the Red Chamber, and The Romance of the Three Kingdoms, this book will demonstrate the value, importance, and feasibility of teaching Chinese classic works for ICC development in the Chinese world language classroom and equip teachers with carefully planned, classroom-tested lesson models that demonstrate the innovative integrative models advocated in this book. This book will be valuable for pre- and in-service Mandarin Chinese teachers across various institutional settings at different levels looking for ready materials and professional development resources. The book can also be used as core material for teacher training programs.

The Teacher's Guide to Media Literacy Cyndy Scheibe, Faith Rogow, 2012. A Deeper Sense of Literacy is the first book to suggest that media literacy is both a content area and an approach to teaching that can be integrated into any subject area. It combines theory and practical application in a way that addresses the most important questions related to media literacy in education today: what is it, why is it important, how can you teach it across a wide range of curriculum areas and grade levels, and does it work? Rather than focusing on how to teach media literacy, Scheibe and Rogow focus on actually using media literacy to teach lessons across the content areas.

Literacy and Learning in the Content Areas Sharon Kane, 2017-07-05. The 3rd Edition of Literacy Learning in the Content Areas helps readers build the knowledge, motivation, tools, and confidence they need as they integrate literacy into their middle and high school content area classrooms. Its unique approach to teaching content area literacy actively engages preservice and practicing teachers in reading and writing and the very activities that they will use to teach literacy to their own students in middle and high school classrooms. Rather than passively learning about strategies for incorporating content area literacy activities, readers get hands-on experience in such techniques as mapping, webbing, anticipation guides, booktalks, class websites, and journal writing and reflection. Readers also learn how to integrate children's and young adult literature, primary sources, biographies, essays, poetry, and online content communities and websites into their classrooms. Each chapter offers concrete teaching examples and practical suggestions to help make literacy relevant to students' content area learning. Author Sharon Kane demonstrates how relevant reading, writing, speaking, listening, and visual learning activities can improve learning in content area subjects and at the same time help readers meet national content knowledge standards and benchmarks.

Fiery Cinema Weihong Bao, 2015-03-15. What was cinema in modern China? It was this book tells us a dynamic entity not strictly tied to one media technology one mode of operation or one system of aesthetic code It was in Weihong Bao's term an affective medium a distinct notion of the medium as mediating environment with the power to stir passions frame perception and mold experience In Fiery Cinema Bao traces the permutations of this affective medium from the early through the mid twentieth century exploring its role in aesthetics politics and social institutions Mapping the changing identity of cinema in China in relation to Republican era print media theatrical performance radio broadcasting television and architecture Bao has created an archaeology of Chinese media culture Within this context she grounds the question of spectatorial affect and media technology in China's experience of mechanized warfare colonial modernity and the shaping of the public into consumers national citizens and a revolutionary collective subject Carrying on a close conversation with transnational media theory and history she teases out the tension and affinity between vernacular political modernist and propagandistic articulations of mass culture in China's varied participation in modernity Fiery Cinema advances a radical rethinking of affect and medium as a key insight into the relationship of cinema to the public sphere and the making of the masses By centering media politics in her inquiry of the forgotten future of cinema Bao makes a major intervention into the theory and history of media

Mulan - A film review Stephanie Wössner, 2009-11-13 Literature Review from the year 2003 in the subject Communications Movies and Television grade A San Francisco State University Ethnic Studies course AAS 693 Asian Americans and the Mass Media language English abstract Whenever a new Disney film is released millions of people children as well as adults rush to the movie theatre to see it Disney films are much liked by old and young people alike Very frequently they use already commonly known plots and give them a new shape Their repertoire covers many fairy tales and legends One of these legends to be found in the Disney film collection is the story of Mulan the story of a Chinese girl who disguised as a man takes her father's place in the Chinese army and helps defend China against the Huns She does this to preserve the honor of the family This old Chinese legend has as is true for most of the Disney productions been changed and made suitable for the white American market of family entertainment The China portrayed in the original version of the legend of Mulan or rather the children's book that was available to me in our course reader is a pretty accurate description of what ancient China must have been like. However, for the audience, this children's book is probably aimed at a Chinese audience with a Chinese background. Chinese culture is nothing extraordinary, so the culture is not highlighted in any way. In this book, Mulan has been trained in martial arts by her father from very early in her childhood. Moreover, she has a brother whose name she takes on when taking her father's place in the war against the intruders. In other words, Mulan has been given her martial arts skills as well as a name from a man she has not acquired or created herself. When she leaves, she leaves her home with the permission of her parents. Due to her knowledge of martial arts and her intelligence, she is soon admired by all of the soldiers and becomes a commanding general during a war of more than ten years. There is no one there to either protect her or assist her with advice. In the end, this very strategically oriented general uses the superstition of her enemies, which are not the Huns but simply enemies from the north, against them and defeats them. She wins without failing first, and it is only in the end that everyone finds out that she is actually a woman, and no one feels offended about it. The possible message of this legend may be the importance of honor in ancient China, which has to be defended against the enemy, no matter who this enemy may be.
