Le Spiritisme A Sa Plus Simple Expression:

Le Spiritisme à sa plus simple expression Allan Kardec,1862 Le Spiritisme à sa plus simple expression, exposé sommaire de l'enseignement des esprits, par Allan Kardec... Allan Kardec, Le Spiritisme a Sa Plus Simple Expression , Le Spiritisme à sa plus simple expression, y compris trois importantes innovations (poétique, scientifique et morale), par Augustin Babin (ami tout dévoué de notre humanité terrestre). Augustin Babin,1887 Le spiritisme à sa plus simple expression Allan Kardec,1874 The Pioneers of the Spiritual Reformation. Life and Works of Dr. Justinus Kerner, Adapted from the German. William Howitt and His Work for Spiritualism. Biographical Sketches Anna Mary Howitt Watts,Aimé Reinhard,2025-09-18 Reprint of the original first published in 1883 The Antigonos publishing house specialises in the publication of reprints of historical books We make sure that these works are made available to the public in good condition in order to preserve their cultural heritage The Spiritist Fallacy René Guénon,2003 Since WW II channeling has largely replaced older styles of mediumship in the movement loosely known as the New Age Yet the two are intimately related As both historical chronicle and metaphysical critique The Spiritist Fallacy together with its companion volume Theosophy History of a Pseudo Religion is a valuable study of New Age origins Gu non takes the spirit manifestations of the Fox sisters in Hydesville New York in 1847 as his starting point but while accepting the reality of many such manifestations denies that they represent the spirits of the departed He sees them rather as fostering belief in a kind of rarefied materialism as though the spirit of the deceased were no more than an invisible quasi material body and death no more than a shedding of the physical body while the spirit remains otherwise unchanged a belief widespread today in popular culture The author demonstrates how various spirit philosophies are little more than reflections of their own milieux English spirits being conservative and denying reincarnation French spirits accepting reincarnation and espousing progressivist or revolutionary ideas etc And he addresses the strange fact that manifestations associated from antiquity with haunted houses suddenly in the 19th century and within five years of their appearance spawned an international pseudo religious movement speculating that certain magicians possibly from the Hermetic Brotherhood of Luxor may have intentionally produced the Hydesville phenomena by actively projecting hidden influences upon the passive psyches of their mediums The mutual influence of Spiritism and Theosophy and the adverse affects of spirit entities upon many mediums are also covered in considerable detail The Spiritist Error is both an expos of unconscious Satanism and a highly useful critique of the false ideas of the afterlife which are so prevalent in our time British Museum Catalogue of printed Books ,1881 Le spiritisme à sa plus simple expression... par Allan Kardec,... 51e édition Allan Kardec,1905 Demon Possession and Allied Themes John Livingston Nevius,1894 Catalogue of Printed Books British Museum, The Censorship of the Church of Rome and its Influence Upon the Production and Distribution of Literature (Complete) George Haven Putnam,2020-09-28 In these volumes I have undertaken to present a record of the Indexes which have been issued under the authority of the Church of Rome or which having been compiled by ecclesiastics were published under the authority of the State between the year 1546 the date of the first list of prohibited books which may properly be described as an Index and 1900 in which year was issued the second Index of Leo XIII the latest in the papal series To this record I have added a selection of the more noteworthy examples of censorship during the earlier centuries of the Church a list which begins with a curious prohibition in 150 probably the earliest instance of censorship by a Church council a schedule of the more important of the decrees edicts pastoral briefs etc issued under ecclesiastical authority which had to do with the matter of censorship and a specification of certain censorship regulations which before the publication of the first Index came into force in the several States of Europe Such a schedule of decrees and regulations can of course lay no claim to completeness I have attempted simply to present examples of prohibitions and condemnations from decade to decade which were typical or characteristic and from which some impression could be gathered as to the nature and the extent of the censorship experiments throughout the centuries in the several communities concerned A brief account has been added of the organisation and of the operations of the Roman Inquisition and of the Congregation of the Index as it was from these bodies that emanated the series of papal Indexes and with them rested from the middle of the sixteenth century the responsibility for the shaping of the general policy of the Church in regard to censorship The plan of the treatise does not render it practicable to attempt any general survey of political censorship or the censorship of the State but I have presented a brief selection of examples of State action in censorship in order to make the necessary comparison between the methods followed by the State and those of the Church and to make clear that the censorship of the Roman Church was at least outside of Spain not so autocratic in its principles nor so exacting and burdensome in its methods as was the censorship which was from time to time attempted by State governments acting for the most part under Protestant influence I have attempted to base upon these schedules and records some conclusions as to the actual influence of the general system of censorship as connected more particularly with the enforcement of the penalties prescribed by the Indexes upon the production and distribution of literature in the several communities which recognised to a greater or less extent the authority of the Church An interesting indication of the extent of this influence is given through the records of the business of the printer publishers and booksellers of the period in such States as Italy Spain France Germany the Netherlands and England Finally I have attempted in the closing chapters to make a study of the literary policy of the modern Church as indicated in the latest of the papal Indexes and in certain utterances by representative Catholics concerning the censorship policy of the Church which have come into print during the past quarter of a century In collecting the material for the several schedules of Indexes decrees etc I am chiefly indebted to the treatise of Heinrich Reusch Der Index der Verbotenen Bücher published in Bonn in 1885 Dr Reusch's work may be described as monumental in the thoroughness and authoritativeness of its scholarship The information presented in regard to the series of Indexes and decrees is most comprehensive and precise The compass of Reusch's three volumes which comprise twenty four hundred closely printed octavo pages renders them however unavailable for the use of the general reader I have knowledge of no work in English which presents with any measure of completeness the record of the Indexes and of no book in any language which attempts a general survey of the purpose and results of the censorship of the Church It has seemed to me therefore that I might render some service to the study of the conditions affecting literary production and distribution by utilising certain portions of the material collected by Reusch in a work prepared for English speaking readers which should present the schedule of the Indexes and a summary of the more noteworthy of the decrees edicts briefs etc having to do with censorship and by connecting with this a study of the results secured through this censorship policy of the Church and of the range of its influence I have been able to include in the catalogue of Indexes certain titles which were not listed by Reusch and I have added the record of the Indexes which have been published since the date of Reusch's treatise I have not been dependent upon Reusch's schedules for the contents of the Indexes themselves as I have been able to make a personal examination of all of the more important Indexes in the series from examples in my own library and in the comprehensive collection of my valued friend Mr Archer M Huntington Mr Huntington has I may mention rendered a most important service to students of the Index through his reprints produced in facsimile of five of the earlier issues as follows Louvain 1546

Louvain 1550 Cordova 1550 Cordova 1554 Valladolid 1559 The Censorship of the Church of Rome and Its Influence Upon the Production and Distribution of Literature: 1600-1900 George Haven Putnam, 1907 Le Spiritisme à sa plus simple expression, exposé sommaire de l'enseignement des esprits et de leurs manifestations, par Allan Kardec Allan
