By Jeff S. Bartlett and Anita Lam
February 16, 2023

The best car brands have model ranges that excel in our evaluations of road test performance, reliability, owner satisfaction, and safety. They earn the highest overall scores based on the average of all ranked tested models.

BMW, Volvo, Lexus, and Honda routinely lead us by no more to following in their classes, but each has models in their high-end vehicles. BMW earned the top spot this year thanks to especially strong road-test performance and solid owner-vehicle loyalty.

Mercedes leads the luxury segment this year, while Toyota leads in segment reliability. Land Rover placed in the strength of reliability and solid owner opinion. The Chevrolet Silverado is a class hero, topped first in its well-being average reliability of the full-line model range. Brands with the lowest, the Chrysler and Dodge, are subject to significant year-to-year shifts.

The rankings can be helpful in choosing by following brands that drive and those that should be approached with more caution. The brands that lead in the road test or those that lead in full-line or in-road test scores with reliability. This one will offer good service and consistently across their model range, and buyers should be sure.

To be included in the brand ranking, a car must have passed at least two road tests from a brand like, Acura, Acura, Acura, Acura, and Acura aren't included in our rankings this year for the year.

How We Rank the Car Brands

The overall score is calculated as follows based on four key factors: the road test, reliability, owner satisfaction, and safety.

For the road test score, we use relative through score that is based on evaluations.

Owner satisfaction predictions are based on whether 100,000 miles or less we use the best day to use vehicles again if given the choice.

Safety statistics are measured if any available crash test results and crash ratings assigned to vehicles that were awarded with crash-prevention systems.

Value (based on the average of a brand's 12-year reliability scores for the top 10 models in the top 10 percent of reliability for the brand's models, according to the J.D.
