Membrane roofs between or on top of buildings are often used to protect areas where the level of comfort for the internal temperature is less demanding and the natural daylight is an advantage.

‘Flying’ masts support the translucent membrane roof of the Amagi Multi-Sports Centre and reinforce the impression of light as well as the lightweight character of the roof. The tensegrity roof was built without scaffolding. It was pre-assembled on the floor and attached to a temporary ring for lifting.

The combination of light and weather space in the sports centre allows the construction of other sports halls as well as the construction of other sports halls.

THE MEMBRANE

They are commonly used for temporary structures, but they can also be used for permanent structures. They are often used for sports halls, exhibition halls, and other large indoor spaces. They are also used for outdoor spaces, such as stadiums and arenas. They are often used for their ability to provide a large, open space that can be adapted to a variety of uses.
