Chemicals without Harm Ken Geiser, 2015-06-19 A proposal for a new chemicals strategy that we work to develop safer alternatives to hazardous chemicals rather than focusing exclusively on controlling them Today there are thousands of synthetic chemicals used to make our clothing cosmetics household products electronic devices even our children s toys Many of these chemicals help us live longer and more comfortable lives but some of these highly useful chemicals are also persistent toxic and dangerous to our health and the environment For fifty years the conventional approach to hazardous chemicals has focused on regulation barriers and protection In Chemicals without Harm Ken Geiser proposes a different strategy based on developing and adopting safer alternatives to hazardous chemicals rather than focusing exclusively on controlling them Geiser reviews past government policies focused on controlling chemicals describes government initiatives outside the United States that have begun to implement a more sustainable chemical policy and offers an overview of the chemicals industry and market He develops a safer chemicals policy framework that includes processes for characterizing classifying and prioritizing chemicals generating and using new chemical information and promoting transitions to safer chemicals The shift in strategy described by Geiser will require broad changes in science the chemicals economy and government policy Geiser shows that it is already beginning identifying an emerging movement of scientists corporate managers environmental activists and government leaders who are fashioning a new twenty first century approach to chemicals Scientific American, 1891 Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia and Fact-index Guy Stanton Ford, 1948
