

What are the essential characteristics of the algorithm for determining all the basic transformations of the strings and functions of Algorithm 1? How similar is it to Exercise 1? Are problems more complex for determining the set of all basic strings and length of an object that could be obtained. Are a majority of problems are solved for n .

Exercise 1.1

1. The main results are algorithmic rules of Algorithm 1, the sets of basic strings (see the text "Algorithm 1" below). In particular, we should show that the range of the words "positive" and "negative" does not overlap.
2. Show that the initial number of the n -th power is not a function of the number of "positive" and "negative" strings in the word. How many n -th powers are there?
3. a. Write down string structures for getting long word with n positive and n negative symbols.
 b. Write down a recipe for finding word length with the greatest number of n -th powers.
4. Develop an algorithm for computing $|L_n|$ for any positive integer n . The algorithm should use recursion, your algorithm may use any other than basic algorithmic operations.
5. a. Find $|L_n|$ for $n=1, 2, 3, 4, 5$ by applying Exercise's algorithm.
 b. Estimate how many times more is $|L_n|$ for $n=100$ compared to $|L_1|$. How the Exercise's algorithm compares with the algorithm from an already considered example from section 1.1. How is $|L_n|$ for $n=100$?
6. a. Show algorithmically problem 1.1.1. a) and b) for any pair of positive integers n and m .
 b. What does Exercise's algorithm say for a pair of numbers n and m for which the first number is smaller than the second one? What is the largest number of n -th power substrings that the algorithm's recursion can return here?
7. a. What is the largest number of divisions made by Exercise's algorithm using all inputs $1 \leq n \leq m \leq 100$?
 b. What is the largest number of divisions made by Exercise's algorithm using all inputs $1 \leq n \leq m \leq 100$?
8. a. Exercise's algorithm, as presented by Exercise's text, is not algorithmic under this concept definition. What is particular that this version of Exercise's algorithm.
