

Infectious Disease Risk Assessment

The Infectious Disease Risk Assessment Form is to be completed following the Comprehensive Assessment by all programs that receive Department of Public Health funding or others who wish to utilize it. This assessment is best conducted in an interview type manner by a clinically trained person who has some familiarity with HIV and other sexually transmitted diseases, HIV testing sites and other resources. At a minimum, agencies should provide staff conducting this assessment with a one page fact sheet on HIV that includes basic facts about HIV and a list of local testing sites. It is recommended that a fact sheet on Hepatitis C also be created as an adjunct to the HIV fact sheet. The DPH website has materials prepared in multiple languages.
