Buying Versus Renting - Determinants of the Net Present Value of Home Ownership for Individual Households Isaac T. Tabner, 2016 The tenure decision upon whether to buy or to rent accommodation has long term consequences for households financial wellbeing that influence macroeconomic development and stability when the cumulative effects of individual decisions are aggregated across populations The author explains how the net present value NPV of ownership versus renting can be used as a framework for informing housing tenure decisions Increases in holding periods inflation and the spread between imputed rent and the opportunity cost of household savings shifts the balance in favour of ownership With plausible assumptions the model demonstrates that households typically need a holding period of between five and ten years to achieve a breakeven NPV The findings support the conjecture that inflation transfers wealth from renters and mortgage providers to owners whereas deflation reverses the flow until rising default levels establish a new equilibrium

Renting Versus Owning and the Role of Human Capital Rainer Schulz,2014 In a world with complete markets the decision whether to rent or buy a home is not influenced by risks related to human capital If markets are incomplete and have frictions however this may change Renting should become more likely the more mobile a household has to be and the more income risk can be diversified Using household panel data from Germany we test both predictions We find that mobility requirements have a positive effect on the probability of renting This effect is robust even after controlling for state dependence unobserved heterogeneity and other factors known to influence the tenure mode choice Our data however does not support the hypothesis that potential to diversify net risk income when renting affects the tenure mode choice
