A. Deletion

B. Duplication

C. Inversion

D. Translocation

b. a piece of a chromosome is deleted

d. a section of a chromosome appears to be on one chromosome but is actually on another

2. How many genetically different gametes can be produced from a diploid cell with four chromosomes pairs? Describe your answer.

There are 16 genetically different gametes that can be produced because in a diploid cell there are four chromosome pairs. Each pair can contribute either one or two chromosomes to the gametes.

3. Although you will learn a classification of mutations this semester, you recognize that some mutations cause the loss of function of a protein. For example, both color blindness and deafness are caused by loss of function mutations. How do these two mutations differ?

Color blindness is caused by a mutation in the gene for the protein that is responsible for the ability to see colors. Deafness is caused by a mutation in the gene for the protein that is responsible for the ability to hear sounds.

4. Describe the alignment of chromosomes during prophase I, write the equations:

Chromosomes I and II are aligned side by side. Chromosomes III and IV are aligned side by side. This is a synaptonemal complex. It is a structure that is formed by the pairing of chromosomes and is responsible for the exchange of genetic material.

5. How does nondisjunction lead to chromosomal abnormalities? Describe two types of genetic disorders that can result from nondisjunction.
