The Theory and Practice of Grading Writing Frances Zak, Christopher C. Weaver, 1998-01-01 Explores grading strategies for English composition teachers that are consistent with modern discourse and pedagogical theories

Demythologizing Language Difference in the Academy Mark Waldo, 2004-02-04 In this volume Mark Waldo argues that writing across the curriculum WAC programs should be housed in writing centers and explains an innovative approach to enhancing their effectiveness focus WAC on the writing agendas of the disciplines He asserts that WAC operation should reflect an academy characterized by multiple language communities each with contextualized values purposes and forms for writing and no single community's values superior to another's Starting off with an examination of the core issue that WAC should be promoting learning to write in the disciplines instead of writing to learn Waldo proposes housing WAC in comprehensive writing centers independent of any other department using dialogue and inquiry rather than prescriptive techniques in the WAC program's interaction with faculty in other disciplines and phasing out writing assessment that depends on one test measuring the writing abilities of students from all disciplines In the process of making his case Waldo discusses tutor training faculty consultancy and multilayered assessment programs In addition to presenting the theoretical and practical advantages of discipline based WAC programs he also offers clear and compelling evidence from his own institution that supports the success of this approach to writing instruction

Demythologizing Language Difference in the Academy Establishing Discipline Based Writing Programs will be of interest to writing program and WAC administrators writing center administrators graduate students studying composition and educators and graduate students involved in WAC initiatives research and study

Teachers' Comments on Students' Writing Jean A. King, 1979 Effective Grading Barbara E. Walvoord, Virginia

Johnson Anderson, 1998-02-25 The grading process can yield rich information about student learning Effective Grading enables faculty to go beyond using grades as isolated artifacts and helps them make classroom grading processes more fair time efficient and conducive to learning Classroom assessment of student learning can then contribute to departmental and general education assessment in ways that meet the needs of institutions and accrediting agencies Tailored to specific needs of faculty members who seek to make grading a valuable part of student learning and motivation Effective Grading balances assessment theory and hands on advice It offers an in depth examination of the link between teaching and grading and provides concrete guidance on such critical steps as setting and communicating grading standards developing assignments to grade managing time spent on grading and providing feedback for students Risky Teaching Jay W. Roberts, 2021-11-22 Risky Teaching examines the role of risk and uncertainty in teaching and learning in higher education Discussing the current landscape of higher education and the challenges and opportunities we face this book synthesizes a range of evidence based and high impact practices both in and out of the classroom offering practical strategies and thought provoking ideas on educational innovation for students and faculty Covering topics such as taking risks inside the classroom innovative teaching methods outside the classroom rethinking assessment and sustaining creativity as we grow in our careers this practical resource is for faculty and instructors to work within and through uncertainty The book also explores the inward challenges and opportunities associated with risky teaching and how institutional leaders can encourage productive risk taking throughout the organization This important text is for faculty and instructors in higher education who want to help their students thrive in a complex unscripted and disruptive world Teaching Your First College Class Carolyn

Lieberg, 2023-07-03 No other teaching experience will feel quite like the first time an instructor walks into a classroom to face a class of students This book is a wise and friendly guide for new faculty and graduate student instructors who are about to teach for the first time It provides an introduction to the theory of teaching describes proven strategies and activities for engaging students in their learning and offers advice on classroom management syllabus creation grading assessment and discipline issues among other topics It prepares readers for a confident start as teachers and gives them a firm foundation on which to develop their skills and personal classroom styles The author breaks teaching down into its component elements and tasks to enable graduate student instructors to identify their particular responsibilities and learn about what works and does not They will also benefit from reading the book as a whole as it sets their work in the context of course objectives and learning theory For new faculty this engaging book provides a solid basis from which to develop their skills and personal styles as teachers and offers guidance on documenting their classroom success for the purposes of promotion and tenure For graduate student instructors the book is a companion that will give them confidence and pleasure in teaching and stand them
