Multiple Solution Methods for Teaching Science in the Classroom
Stephen DeMeo, 2008 For the first time in science education the subject of multiple solution methods is explored in book form While a multiple method teaching approach is utilized extensively in math education there are very few journal articles and no texts written on this topic in science Teaching multiple methods to science students in order to solve quantitative word problems is important for two reasons First it challenges the practice by teachers that one specific method should be used when solving problems Secondly it calls into question the belief that multiple methods would confuse students and retard their learning Using a case study approach and informed by research conducted by the author this book claims that providing students with a choice of methods as well as requiring additional methods as a way to validate results can be beneficial to student learning A close reading of the literature reveals that time spent on elucidating concepts rather than on algorithmic methodologies is a critical issue when trying to have students solve problems with understanding It is argued that conceptual understanding can be enhanced through the use of multiple methods in an environment where students can compare evaluate and verbally discuss competing methodologies through the facilitation of the instructor This book focuses on two very useful methods proportional reasoning PR and dimensional analysis DA These two methods are important because they can be used to solve a large number of problems in all of the four academic sciences biology chemistry physics and earth science This book concludes with a plan to integrate DA and PR into the academic science curriculum starting in late elementary school through to the introductory college level A challenge is presented to teachers as well as to textbook writers who rely on the single method paradigm to consider an alternative way to teach scientific problem solving

Chemistry, Problem-Solving Worktext James E. Brady, Frederick Senese, 2002-06-13 The images on the cover call attention to the relationship between macro observations and the intimate structure of chemical substances and the changes both chemical and physical that they undergo Fireworks One of the ingredients is phosphorus a molecular form of which is believed to consist of linked tetrahedra of phosphorus atoms The chemical reaction of phosphorus with oxygen is partly responsible for the spectacular show of light Carbon The element is found in several forms including the familiar diamond and another recently discovered sooty substance that consists of soccer ball shaped molecules often referred to as buckeyballs Diamond is not the most stable form of carbon and is created from other forms of carbon at high temperatures and pressures deep within the earth Acetylene torch Cutting steel is possible because of the intense heat generated by the chemical reaction of acetylene with oxygen a reaction between molecules of C_2H_2 and O_2 to give CO_2 and H_2O Hot air balloon The air that helps it rise is heated by the combustion of molecules of propane each composed of three carbon and eight hydrogen atoms Stormy weather The evaporation of water serves to store energy provided by the sun Subsequent condensation of the water vapor releases this energy and is the basis of all the weather systems on our planet Problems and Problem Solving in Chemistry Education Georgios Tsaparlis, 2021-05-17 Problem solving is central to the teaching and learning of chemistry at secondary tertiary and post tertiary levels of education opening to students and professional chemists alike a whole new world for analysing data looking for patterns and making deductions As an important higher order thinking skill problem solving also constitutes a major research field in science education Relevant education research is an ongoing process with recent developments occurring not only in the area of quantitative computational problems but also in qualitative problem solving The following situations are considered some general others with a focus on specific areas of chemistry quantitative problems qualitative reasoning metacognition and resource activation deconstructing the problem solving process an overview of the working memory hypothesis reasoning with the electron pushing formalism scaffolding organic synthesis skills spectroscopy for structural characterization in organic chemistry enzyme kinetics problem solving in the academic chemistry laboratory chemistry problem solving in context team based active learning technology for molecular representations IR spectra simulation and computational quantum chemistry tools The book concludes with methodological and epistemological issues in problem solving research and other perspectives in problem solving in chemistry With a foreword by George Bodner Problem Exercises for General Chemistry G.
