

4 Narrative Writing

Narrative writing tells a story. If you write a story from your imagination, it is a fictional narrative. A true story about actual events is a nonfictional narrative.

Narrative writing can be found in short stories, novels, news articles, and biographies.

RUBRIC Standards for Writing

A successful narrative should

- include descriptive details and dialogue to develop the characters, setting, and plot.
- have a clear beginning, middle, and end.
- have a logical organization, with clues and transitions to help the reader understand the order of events.
- maintain a consistent tone and point of view.
- use language that is appropriate for the audience.
- demonstrate the significance of events or ideas.

4 Key Techniques

Identify the Main Events What are the most important events in your narrative? Is each event part of the chain of events needed to tell the story? In a fictional narrative, this series of events is the story's plot.

Describe the Setting When do the events occur? Where do they take place? How can you use setting to create mood and to set the stage for the characters and their actions?

MODEL

Bright spring sunshine highlighted the Auburn hair of the child being pulled along by the matronly woman carrying a market basket. Joshua helped her up the steps onto the train. He stooped to lift the little girl at the same moment the woman jerked the small arm, so that the child stumbled up the stairs on her own.

Depict Characters Vividly What do your characters look like? What do they think and say? How do they act? What vivid details can show readers what the characters are like?

MODEL

Joshua hardly noticed the other passengers as his eyes followed the woman and child. His instincts warned him that something was wrong here.

WRITING TIP Dialogue is an effective way of developing characters in a narrative. As you write dialogue, choose words that express your characters' personalities and show how the characters feel about one another and about the events in the plot.

MODEL

"Hello, ma'am. I'm Joshua, and I'll be in soon to get your compartment ready for the night."
The woman's whisper sent chills down Joshua's spine. "Yeah, OK."
"Are you having a nice ride?" he asked the thin little girl.
"She likes the train," answered the woman.
