Third Grade Reading Level

My New Puppy

Yesterday was the last day of school and today I woke up extra early because I could not contain my excitement. Mom had promised me that on the first day of summer break we would go to the pet store and get a puppy. She said that summer was the best time to get a puppy because I would be home all day. This would give me time to bond with the puppy and train it. Plus the puppy would not be alone during the day. Mom told me that there were ways to train puppies quickly so it could be trained by the time I go back to school in the fall.

Needless to say, I was beyond excited to get my new best friend today. I had set my alarm for 7:00 AM, but I woke up at 6:00 AM. I tried to stay in bed and relax, but my heart was pounding and my mind was racing with all the possibilities. Will there be little black labs? Will I get a golden retriever? Should I get a small poodle?

Every option was beautiful and amazing. I could not contain my excitement any longer, so I walked over to Mom and Dad's room to see if they were awake. They were still snoring, so I decided to go to the living room and watch TV for a little while. An hour later, Mom padded into the kitchen to make coffee. "Today's the big day. Are you excited?"

"Do you even need to ask that question? I'm so excited I can't breathe!" I said, jumping up and down. "I know, honey. You're my sweetheart, but the pet shop doesn't even open for another thirty minutes. Come eat some breakfast and then we can leave."
