Cultivating Minds Urs Fuhrer,2004 Cultivating Minds is a ground breaking unification of the ideas of Simmel and contemporary perspectives in cultural psychology The theoretical framework proposed is based on an integration of core philosophical sociological and psychological ideas from the intellectual traditions of pragmatism socioculturalism constructivism and transactionalism The primary focus of this work is on cultivation as a metaphor for identity formation According to this idea each and every human agent is an active producer of its own development and identity The cultivation model expands existing sociocultural perspectives by elaborating further how an individual s cultivation of the sociocultural environment is mediated through artefacts and objects a concept exemplified by the identity processes demonstrated by graffiti artists The idea of the cultured mind has profound implications not only for cultural psychology but also for theories of identity and of course development It affects the way we understand the formation of the self and in the end the growth of the person The result is a theory which captures the convergence between identity culture and development in new and far reaching ways

Meaning in Architecture, now Carlo Deregibus,Aurosa Alison,2024-10-15 The connection between form and meaning has been so intrinsic and obvious that it has been implicit for centuries Then around fifty years ago the issue of meaning suddenly burst into the architectural world with many scholars and practitioners bustling to introduce semiology and semiotics into design Now after the globalisation and the atomisation of thoughts of the last decades those debates could seem pretty meaningless the form being mainly an aesthetic feature or a counterfeit fetish for everchanging feeble poetics Yet we continue to design produce and critique architecture attributing meanings intentions and hopes to its forms Once more we will explore and discuss the elusive yet unavoidable connection between meaning and architecture four thematic sections to understand the place and dimension of meaning in of from to after or maybe even for Architecture
