In this article we talk about storage virtualization solution - EMC VPLEX. VPLEX supports both EMC storage arrays from other storage vendors, such as HDS, HP, and IBM. VPLEX supports operating systems including both physical and virtual server environments with VMware ESX and Microsoft Hyper-V. VPLEX supports network fabrics from Brocade and Cisco, including legacy McData SANs.

VPLEX Architecture

VPLEX is deployed as a cluster consisting of one, two, or four engines (each containing two directors), and a management server. A dual-engine or quad-engine cluster also contains a pair of Fibre Channel switches for communication between directors. Each engine is protected by a standby power supply (SPS), and each Fibre Channel switch gets its power through an uninterruptible power supply (UPS). (In a dual-engine or quad-engine cluster, the management server also gets power from a UPS.) The management server has a public Ethernet port, which provides cluster management services when connected to the customer network. This server provides the management interfaces to VPLEX — hosting the VPLEX web server process that serves the VPLEX GUI and REST-based web services interface, as well as the command line interface (CLI) service. In the VPLEX Metro and VPLEX Geo configurations, the VPLEX Management Consoles of each cluster are inter-connected using a virtual private network (VPN) that allows for remote cluster management from a local VPLEX Management Console. When the system is deployed with a VPLEX Witness, the VPN is extended to include the Witness as well.

EMC VPLEX provides three types of configuration:
