

RTOS

Real-time operating system (RTOS) is a type of operating system designed to execute tasks within strict time constraints. It is commonly used in embedded systems and real-time applications where timing is critical.

Feature	Description
Priority Scheduling	Tasks are executed based on their priority, ensuring that high-priority tasks are completed first.
Preemptive Scheduling	The system can preempt a task that is currently running to execute a higher-priority task.
Low Latency	RTOS is designed to have minimal delay between the time a task is triggered and the time it begins execution.

RTOS is used in a wide range of applications, including industrial control systems, medical devices, and automotive systems. It is designed to be highly reliable and to provide deterministic performance, meaning that the system will always respond to a task within a predictable time frame.
