

Question 7.7

Island of Atlas is a resort situated on a small island off the coast of Durban. The resort is a first of its kind and includes the world's first artificial aquarium, sporting realistic robotic fish. The robotic fish are controlled by a remote server.

The cost of constructing the aquarium was C350 000. An independent valuator separated the cost of the aquarium into the following parts, each of which is considered to have a cost that is significant to the cost of the entire aquarium:

- the structure: estimated cost of C100 000,
- the server: estimated cost of C50 000, and
- the robotic fish: estimated cost of C200 000.

The aquarium is depreciated on the straight-line method:

- The structure has an estimated useful life of 100 years and a residual value of C2 000.
- The server has an estimated useful life of 10 years and a residual value of C1 000.
- The robotic fish have an estimated useful life of 50 years and a nil residual value.

Additional information:

- The resort was open and ready for visitors from 2 January 20X3. However, a national strike during the month of January meant that no staff arrived and thus the grand opening was delayed until 1 February 20X3.
- Other costs incurred in relation to opening the resort:

GAAP: Graded Questions

Property, plant and equipment: cost model

	C
Delivery and electronic set-up of robotic fish	1 000
Staff training for aquarium cleaners and IT specialists	15 000
Testing to ensure aquarium was fully operational before grand opening (this involved testing and checking the structure, server and fish)	3 000
Grand opening launch party, including costs to hire a popular DJ	10 000
Initial operating loss	30 000

- The resort was closed during August 20X3 for its annual maintenance programme.
- Island of Atlas owns only two other items of property, plant and equipment, the relevant details for the current year ended 31 December 20X3 are as follows:
 - Land: The company purchased the land many years ago for C5 000 000. It is not depreciated.
 - Building: The company constructed the building. Construction began in April 20X0 and was complete as at 1 January 20X2. The total construction cost was C12 000 000. The building is depreciated on the reducing balance at a rate of 5% per annum. Its residual value is C2 000 000.
- Island of Atlas measures all its property, plant and equipment under the cost model.

Required:

- a) Using Island of Atlas's general journal, show all related journal entries for the year ended 31 December 20X3.
- b) Prepare the 'property, plant and equipment' note for inclusion in the financial statements of Island of Atlas Limited for the year ended 31 December 20X3. Comparatives are not required.

Ignore tax.
