- 1 Administrators who understand the unique needs of physics teachers and physics courses and who encourage the professional affiliation and growth of teachers in both physics content and pedagogy
- 2 Budget allocation that reflects the unique needs of a physics program
- 3 Curriculum that offers physics at several levels to meet the varying needs of students e g Standard Physics Honors Physics Advanced Placement Physics etc
- 4 Instruction that provides opportunities for students to develop scientific knowledge and process skills through classroom demonstrations discussion inquiry laboratory activities research special projects testing etc
- 5 Resources e g facilities instructional materials laboratory equipment and supplies references technology etc and
- 6 Teachers who are well prepared for teaching physics Teachers with a strong content knowledge of physics and how physics integrates with other curricular content Teachers with strong knowledge of instructional strategies Teachers who receive and provide mentoring in pursuit of lifelong professional growth
