In the developing countries world-wide in recent times, the Pace of India's development depends to a large extent on its ability to implement the latest global manufacturing and the information and communication technologies and increase its competitiveness in the international market. In the developing countries world-wide in recent times, manufacturing is taking over agriculture, which in turn has led to the explosive growth of the service sector, especially in the fields of financial services, information and communication technologies, insurance, education, and health. This book projects the hypothesis that no matter what the size or industry sector a company belongs to, there are a few tactics towards successful management which, if adopted, can phenomenally improve its global competitiveness.
