The New Warfare J. Martin Rochester, 2016-02-19 This book looks at the evolving relationship between war and international law examining the complex practical and legal dilemmas posed by the changing nature of war in the contemporary world whether the traditional rules governing the onset and conduct of hostilities apply anymore and how they might be adapted to new realities War always messy has become even messier today with the blurring of interstate intrastate and extrastate violence How can the United States and other countries be expected to fight honourably and observe the existing norms when they often are up against an adversary who recognizes no such obligations Indeed how do we even know whether an armed conflict is underway when modern wars tend to lack neat beginnings and endings and seem geographically indeterminate as well What is the legality of anticipatory self defense humanitarian intervention targeted killings drones detention of captured prisoners without POW status and other controversial practices These questions are explored through a review of the United Nations Charter Geneva Conventions and other regimes and how they have operated in recent conflicts Through a series of case studies including the U S war on terror and the wars in Afghanistan Iraq Gaza Kosovo and Congo the author illustrates the challenges we face today in the ongoing effort to reduce war and when it occurs to make it more humane

Irish Economic Development Eoin O'Leary, 2015-02-20 This book offers a discerning narrative on the spectacular rise and fall of the so called Celtic Tiger economy It depicts Ireland as a micro state with a unique reliance on foreign assisted businesses driven in part by a favourable taxation regime It shows that rent seeking by trades unions and property developers contributed to the fall since 2002 Although the country s highly centralized government s pre disposition to lobbying has yielded international successes it has also resulted in recurring self inflicted crises since 1970 This volume shows how Ireland s export led growth is associated more with the attraction of foreign assisted businesses than with the development of critical masses of internationally competitive indigenous businesses Although the success of foreign assisted businesses in the pharmaceutical ICT and finance sectors has been influenced by tax advantages many of these businesses have been involved in highly productive activity in Ireland over a number of decades

The problem of rent seeking is shown to have undermined Irish competitiveness in the internationally traded and sheltered sectors The Irish policy mind set is shown to lean towards distribution rather than growth While this has been advantageous for how Ireland Inc interacts with other governments and international businesses it has also resulted in a failure to resist the destructive effects of capture by lobbies In conclusion this book considers future opportunities offered by the EU s smart specialization policy and future threats from increased international tax competition It argues that unless Irish citizens and policymakers change deep seated attitudes and mind sets towards business development the country s performance for the next number of decades will more likely resemble serial under achievement than that of a high performing EU state

Growing Community Forests Ryan Bullock, Gayle Broad, Lynn Palmer, M.A. (Peggy) Smith, 2017-10-13 Canada is experiencing an unparalleled crisis involving forests and communities across the country While municipalities policy makers and industry leaders acknowledge common challenges such as an overdependence on US markets rising energy costs and lack of diversification no common set of solutions has been developed and implemented Ongoing and at times contentious public debate has revealed an appetite and need for a fundamental rethinking of the relationships that link our communities governments industrial partners and forests towards a more sustainable future The creation of community forests is one path that promises to build resilience in forest communities and ecosystems This model provides local control over common forest lands in order to activate resource development opportunities benefits and social responsibilities Implementing community forestry in practice has proven to be a complex task however there are no road maps or well developed and widely tested models for community forestry in Canada But in settings where community forests have taken hold there is a rich and growing body of experience to draw on The contributors to Growing Community Forests include leading researchers practitioners Indigenous representatives government representatives local advocates and students who are actively engaged in sharing experiences resources and tools of significance to forest resource communities policy makers and industry
