Boorman, 1991 A Performance Assessment of NASA's Heliophysics Program National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Space Studies Board, Committee on Heliophysics Performance Assessment, 2009-04-24 Since the 1990s the pace of discovery in the field of solar and space physics has accelerated largely owing to NASA investments in its Heliophysics Great Observatory fleet of spacecraft These enable researchers to investigate connections between events on the Sun and in the space environment by combining multiple points of view Recognizing the importance of observations of the Sun to Earth system the National Research Council produced a solar and space physics decadal survey in 2003 laying out the Integrated Research Strategy This strategy provided a prioritized list of flight missions plus theory and modeling programs that would advance the relevant physical theories incorporate those theories in models that describe a system of interactions between the Sun and the space environment obtain data on the system and analyze and test the adequacy of the theories and models Five years later this book measures NASA s progress toward the goals and priorities laid out in the 2003 study Unfortunately very little of the recommended priorities will be realized before 2013 Mission cost growth reordering of survey mission priorities and unrealized budget assumptions have delayed nearly all of the recommended NASA spacecraft missions The resulting loss of

synergistic capabilities in space will constitute a serious impediment to future progress

Tonnis, 1997. A Multidimensional Approach to Achievement Validation Richard J. Shavelson, Robert W. Roeser, 2018-12-07 Two of the most interesting conceptual turns in Richard E. Snow's thinking called for a broadening of the concept of aptitude to include not only cognitive processes but also affective and cognitive processes as essential for understanding academic performance and learning and an exploration of the possibility that individual differences in learning and achievement emerge from dynamic person-situation transactions that unfold over time. The articles in this special issue address these big ideas through the lens of a study of high school students' achievement in science. Educational Measurement Robert L. Brennan, 2023-10-03 Educational Measurement has been the bible in its field since the first edition was published by ACE in 1951. The importance of this fourth edition of Educational Measurement is to extensively update and extend the topics treated in the previous three editions. As such, the fourth edition documents progress in the field and provides critical guidance to the efforts of new generations of researchers and practitioners. Edited by Robert Brennan and jointly sponsored by the American Council on Education (ACE) and the National Council on Measurement in Education, the fourth edition provides in-depth treatments of critical measurement topics, and the chapter authors are acknowledged experts in their respective fields. Educational measurement researchers and practitioners will find this text essential, and those interested in statistics, psychology, business, and economics should also find this work to be of very strong interest. Topics covered are divided into three subject areas: theory and general principles; construction, administration, and scoring; and applications. The first part of the book covers the topics of validation, reliability, item response theory, scaling, and norming; linking and equating; test fairness; and cognitive psychology. Part two includes chapters on test development, test administration, performance assessment, setting performance standards, and technology in testing. The final section includes chapters on second language testing, testing for accountability in K-12 schools, standardized assessment of individual achievement in K-12 schools, higher education admissions testing, monitoring educational progress, licensure and certification testing, and legal and ethical issues.
