

Q14 (a) (1 mark)

The coordinates of $R = (6, 17)$

(b) (i) (4 marks)

Let (h, k) be the coordinates of P .

Since P lies on L , we have $4h + 3k + 50 = 0$.

$\therefore RP \perp L$

$\therefore m_{RP} \times m_L = -1$

$$\left(\frac{k-17}{h-6}\right) \left(-\frac{4}{3}\right) = -1$$

$$3h - 4k + 50 = 0.$$

Solving, we have $h = -14$ and $k = 2$.

$\therefore P(-14, 2)$

$$PR = \sqrt{(-14-6)^2 + (2-17)^2}$$

$$= 25$$

(ii) (1) (1 mark)

P, Q and R are collinear.

(2) (3 marks)

Note that the radius of the C is 10.

$$QR = 10$$

$$PQ = 25 - 10 = 15$$

The required ratio

$$= PQ:QR$$

$$= 15:10$$

$$= 3:2$$

The Math Myth Andrew Hacker, 2010-05-25 A New York Times bestselling author looks at mathematics education in America when it's worthwhile and when it's not. Why do we inflict a full menu of mathematics algebra geometry trigonometry even calculus on all young Americans regardless of their interests or aptitudes? While Andrew Hacker has been a professor of mathematics himself and extols the glories of the subject, he also questions some widely held assumptions in this thought-provoking and practical-minded book. Does advanced math really broaden our minds? Is mastery of azimuths and asymptotes needed for success in most jobs? Should the entire Common Core syllabus be required of every student? Hacker worries that our nation's current frenzied emphasis on STEM is diverting attention from other pursuits and even subverting the spirit of the country. Here he shows how mandating math for everyone prevents other talents from being developed and acts as an irrational barrier to graduation and careers. He proposes alternatives including teaching facility with figures quantitative reasoning and understanding statistics. Expanding upon the author's viral New York Times op-ed, The Math Myth is sure to spark a heated and needed national conversation not just about mathematics but about the kind of people and society we want to be. Hacker's accessible arguments offer plenty to think about and should serve as a clarion call to students, parents, and educators who decry the one-size-fits-all approach to schooling. A Lever Long Enough Robert McCaughey, 2014-06-10 In this comprehensive social history of Columbia University's School of Engineering and Applied Science SEAS, Robert McCaughey combines archival research with oral testimony and contemporary interviews to build both a critical and celebratory portrait of one of the oldest engineering schools in the United States. McCaughey follows the evolving, occasionally rocky, and now integrated relationship between SEAS's engineers and the rest of the Columbia University student body, faculty, and administration. He also revisits the interaction between the SEAS staff and the inhabitants and institutions of the City of New York where the school has resided since its founding in 1864. He compares the historical struggles and achievements of the school's engineers with their present-day battles and accomplishments, and he contrasts their teaching and research approaches to those of their peers at other free-standing and Ivy League engineering schools. What begins as a localized history of a school striving to define itself within a university known for its strengths in the humanities and the social sciences becomes a wider story of the transformation of the applied sciences into a critical component of American technology and education.

Saving the Wild South Georgann Eubanks, 2021-10-19 The American South is famous for its astonishingly rich biodiversity. In this book, Georgann Eubanks takes a wondrous trek from Alabama to North Carolina to search out native plants that are endangered and wavering on the edge of erasure. Even as she reveals the intricate beauty and biology of the South's plant life, she also shows how local development and global climate change are threatening many species, some of which have been graduated to the federal list of endangered species. Why should we care? Eubanks asks about North Carolina's Yadkin River goldenrod, found only in one place on earth. Or the Alabama canebrake.

pitcher plant a carnivorous marvel being decimated by criminal poaching and a booming black market. These plants she argues are important not only to the natural environment but also to southern identity and she finds her inspiration in talking with the heroes the botanists advocates and conservationists young and old on a quest to save these green gifts of the South for future generations. These passionate plant lovers caution all of us not to take for granted the sensitive ecosystems that contribute to the region's long standing appeal beauty and character.
