Version 1.2 ©05/2014

A 'critical' literature review is supposed to 'critically examine' a rather solid literary body of arguments/ideas around a particular topic. The literary body of ideas around the topic (i.e. literature) may include theorizations, conceptualizations, and/or explanations based on empirical studies of the topic. Each body of ideas supports at least one thesis about the topic. The critical review can be structured through answering the following questions:

Critical Review Questions (CRQs):

Introduction:

1. What are the very core arguments thesis/theses developed in the literature around the topic? What are their findings (if the literature includes empirical research)? What theories are used or developed? How are the core concepts defined?
2. Where is the given literature located in its wider historical and intellectual/theoretical contexts? It is important not to consider the literature as an isolated body of arguments but rather to consider it in relation to other similar attempts to study the topic from different points of view.

For instance, if the topic is 'social class in the post-modern time', one body of ideas that you may like to focus on as your main theme can be the idea of meta-industrial class/labor as developed by eco-feminist theorist Ariel Salleh. The thesis is that the meta-industrial labor is a new social class that has the capacity to transform the capitalist relations due to some of its specific features. Historically, such a body of ideas around new classes has emerged in the context of post-Marxist, post cold war era as the result of failure of classical theories of class in explaining the recent changes in the class composition of modern societies. Here you need to explain how the idea of meta-industrial class can be related to and/or located in the wider context of recent theoretical attempts to theorize social classes in the post cold war (post-Marxist) era. You may briefly name a few other important theses with some overlaps and differences.

Discussion (Body):

3. To what extent are the arguments and the thesis embedded in them (as presented by the author(s) in the literature) supported by facts/evidence? How selective vs. inclusive are the authors in their approach to empirical evidence? Answering this question requires the reviewer to examine the given body of ideas or thesis in the literature in terms of its ability to back up the Parvathy, Dr. M. Umayavalli, Dr. P. Ramu, Mrs. V. Manjula, 2023-07-28 The researcher s inner world is formed by his or her choice of research methodology which considers the nature of the study and the researcher s philosophy time frame and other contextual factors Furthermore the research methodology works as the central nervous system since it limits the scope of the investigation and because proper research work necessitates that both the internal and exterior surroundings adhere to the correct research methodology procedure Research methodologies refer to the procedures used to assemble information for studies The data might be used for theoretical or applied studies such as the strategic conceptualization of management research operational planning methodologies and change management Most of your work will be done when you complete the data analysis However before you start you need to consider specific crucial issues in research technique such as the validity of research data ethics and dependability After this comes the research plan which might be either purely experimental or include some elements of experimentation The last two steps are analyzing the data and producing the research report The data is meticulously sorted into graphs tables and only the most relevant information is presented A researcher must develop a research approach appropriate to the study s subject matter It is essential to remember that even if two topics need the same study approach the research technique might differ Research Elaine R.
