

Student Exploration: Longitudinal Waves

Activity A: Observing longitudinal waves

Get the Gizmo ready:

- Click Reset (↺).
- Select Continuous waves. Check that the Strength is 1.00 and Freq. is 30 Hz.

Introduction: When you strike a tuning fork on a hard surface, the tines of the fork start to vibrate back and forth at a certain frequency, or number of cycles per second. This motion causes nearby molecules to move back and forth, creating sound waves. The greater the frequency of the sound wave, the higher pitched the sound will be.

Question: What happens to air as a sound wave passes through it?

1. Observe: Click Play, and then click Pause (⏸) after about 70 simulated milliseconds (does not have to be exact). Sketch the current positions of the dividers below.

I don't know how to draw on that picture, but it is tight at the beginning and then spreads out and then becomes tight again. (compression>rarefaction>compression)

2. Identify: Longitudinal waves have two important features. Compressions are regions where particles are squished together. Rarefactions are regions where particles are spread apart.

In your diagram above, draw a red rectangle around each compression and a blue oval around each rarefaction. (Note: The dividers were originally spaced one meter apart.)

3. Observe: Turn on the Displacement graph. The displacement of a divider is equal to the change from its original position. The original positions of the red and green dividers are shown by the red and green dots below the tube.

In which direction has the red divider moved? The green divider?

The red divider has moved to the right and the green divider has moved to the left.
