Conclude and Apply

- No, each student did not have the same power rating. There is a great deal of variation in mass and in time taken to ascend the stairs.
- Power vs. Work and Power vs. Time
- Both show a definite relationship because Power is defined by work and time.
- Power is the quotient found when work done is divided by the time required to complete that work.

Going Further

- You can either increase the mass you will transport or the distance you will climb (while keeping time constant) or decrease the time it takes to ascend the stairs (while keeping mass and distance constant)
- The fastest climbers may have had a very small mass.
- The most massive climbers may have been very slow.
- Answers will vary.

Real-World Physics

- Some students may find they will be able to power a 120 W television or a 60.0 W radio.
- Students may find they can generate 6.0 kWh, which would earn them $0.36.
- There would either have to be a weight sensor or climbers would have to enter their weight. The machine could also have sensors to measure the distance climbed and the time so that power could be calculated.

Cornwell, F. W. M. McElrea, John R. Blad, Robert B. Cormier, 2006 Criminal Punishment and Restorative Justice is an appraisal of the divide that exists between punitive and restorative methods The book looks at events that serve to restrict a greater and more emphatic adoption of restorative justice and its huge potential in contemporary criminal justice developments In an era of increasing and worldwide reliance on imprisonment and other punitive methods the author argues that justice and communities would be far better served by a more enthusiastic and early shift to restorative methods Criminal Punishment and Restorative Justice provides an international perspective on how restorative justice can bring about an altogether more enlightened approach to dealing with offenders and victims alike against a backdrop of often spurious traditional justifications for punishment While acknowledging the need for a constructive use of custody and other corrections in response to serious crime the author points out that the present over reliance on custody can be reduced by challenging offenders to take responsibility for their offenses and to make practical reparation for their wrong doing and repairing the harm that they have caused The book also assesses the potential of restorative justice to make corrections more effective civilized humane and pragmatic in terms of finding solutions to crime on the basis of sound principles and information not political expediency
