Geography June 2014 Paper 1:

The Life Cycle of Clusters Dirk Fornahl, Robert Hassink, 2017-04-28 One size fits all cluster policies have been rightly criticized in the literature. One promising approach is to focus cluster policies on the specific needs of firms depending on the stage of development: emergence, growth, sustainment, or decline. Their cluster is in. In this highly insightful book, these stage-specific cluster policies are analysed and evaluated. Moreover, several chapters also focus on smart specialization policies to promote regional development by taking into account the emergence and adaptation of clusters and industries.

Children, Young People and Critical Geopolitics Matthew C. Benwell, Peter Hopkins, 2017-05-15 Young people and in particular children have typically been marginalised in geopolitical research, positioned as too young to understand or relate to the adult-dominated world of international relations. Integrating current debates in critical geopolitics and political geography with research in children's geographies, childhood studies, and youth research, this book sets out an agenda for the field of children's and young people's critical geopolitics. It considers diverse practices such as play, activism, media consumption, and diplomacy to show how children's and young people's lives relate to wider regional and global geopolitical processes. Engaging with contemporary concepts in human geography, including ludic geopolitics, affect, emotional geographies, intergenerationality, creative diplomacy, popular geopolitics, and citizenship, the authors draw on geopolitical research with children and young people from Europe, Asia, Australasia, Africa, and the Americas. The chapters highlight the ways in which young people can be enrolled, ignored, dismissed, empowered, and represented by the state for geopolitical ends. Notwithstanding this state power, the research presented also shows how young people have agency and make decisions about their lives, which are influenced by wider geopolitical processes. The focus on the lives of children and young people problematises and extends what it is we think of when considering the geopolitical, which enriches as well as advances critical geopolitical enquiry and deserves to be taken seriously by political geographies more broadly.

Social Urbanism and the Politics of Violence K. Maclean, 2015-01-23 Medellin, Colombia, used to be the most violent city on earth, but in recent years, allegedly thanks to its social urbanism approach to regeneration, it has experienced a sharp decline in violence. The author explores the politics behind this decline and the complex transformations in terms of urban development policies in Medellin.

Ireland and migration in the twenty-first century Mary Gilmartin, 2015-07-29 Considers migration to and from and within Ireland in the twenty-first century, covering the Celtic Tiger era of mass immigration to Ireland, as well as the dramatic growth in levels of emigration that has occurred since the Irish economic collapse.

Growing Community Forests Ryan Bullock, Gayle Broad, Lynn Palmer, M.A. (Peggy) Smith, 2017-10-13 Canada is experiencing an unparalleled crisis involving forests and communities across the country. While municipalities, policy makers, and industry leaders acknowledge common challenges such as an overdependence on US markets, rising energy costs, and lack of diversification, no common set of solutions has been developed and implemented. Ongoing and at times contentious public debate has revealed an appetite and need for a fundamental rethinking of the relationships that link our communities governments industrial partners and forests towards a more sustainable future The creation of community forests is one path that promises to build resilience in forest communities and ecosystems This model provides local control over common forest lands in order to activate resource development opportunities benefits and social responsibilities Implementing community forestry in practice has proven to be a complex task however there are no road maps or well developed and widely tested models for community forestry in Canada But in settings where community forests have taken hold there is a rich and growing body of experience to draw on The contributors to Growing Community Forests include leading researchers practitioners Indigenous representatives government representatives local advocates and students who are actively engaged in sharing experiences resources and tools of significance to forest resource communities policy makers and industry

Emotional States Eleanor Jupp, Jessica Pykett, Fiona M. Smith, 2016-10-14 What is the political allure value and currency of emotions within contemporary cultures of governance What does it mean to govern more humanely Since the emergence of an emotional turn in human geography over the last decade the notion that our emotions matter in understanding an array of social practices spatial formations and aspects of everyday life is no longer seen as controversial This book brings recent developments in emotional geography into dialogue with social policy concerns and contemporary issues of governance It sets the intellectual scene for research into the geographical dimensions of the emotionalized states of the citizen policy maker and public service worker and highlights new research on the emotional forms of governance which now characterise public life An international range of empirical field studies are used to examine issues of regulation modification governance and potential manipulation of emotional affects professional and personal identities and political technologies Contributors provide analysis of the role of emotional entanglements in policy strategy policy implementation service delivery citizenship and participation as well as considering the emotional nature of the research process itself It will be of interest to researchers and students within social policy human geography politics and related disciplines
