Differentiating Instruction for Gifted Learners Christine L. Weber, Wendy A. Behrens, Cecelia Boswell, 2021-09-03

Differentiating Instruction for Gifted Learners allows educators and stakeholders to examine issues related to differentiating curriculum and instruction in a variety of contexts. The case studies in this rich resource analyze various differentiation strategies and their benefits to promote classrooms where every student belongs, every student is valued, and every student is nurtured. The cases facilitate conversations about children and their unique needs by situating learning in authentic and meaningful contexts with the goal of helping educators improve services and programs for gifted and talented students. Things to Consider guide the reader's thinking without imparting an explicit action recommendation or solution. Discussion questions, activities, extensions, and suggestions for additional readings support the standards of excellence set forth in the revised NAGC CEC Teacher Preparation Standards in Gifted and Talented Education and the NAGC CEC Advanced Standards in Gifted Education Teacher Preparation.

Brain Framing Dr. Linda Karges-Bone, 2011-09-01. Brain Framing is a book of ideas for thinking about thinking in the classroom. Ideas to help us frame the brains of students in ways that are productive, powerful, and personal. This book will help teachers to engage brains in three fresh ways: framing student learning into more personalized experiences that utilize new research on the brain, the body, and the spirit; creating brain-friendly classroom environments that link sensory and cognitive experiences in ways that reduce stress for both the teacher and the student; and organizing content into meaningful chunks and layers that fit into the unique frames of students' brains.

Psychology and Mathematics Education Gila Hanna, Laura Macchi, Karin Binder, Laura Martignon, Katharina Loibl, 2023-09-05. Modern Mathematics is constructed rigorously through proofs based on truths which are either axioms or previously proven theorems. Thus it is par excellence a model of rational inquiry. Links between Cognitive Psychology and Mathematics Education have been particularly strong during the last decades. Indeed, the Enlightenment view of the rational human mind that reasons, makes decisions, and solves problems based on logic and probabilities was shaken during the second half of the twentieth century. Cognitive psychologists discovered that humans' thoughts and actions often deviate from rules imposed by strict normative theories of inference. Yet these deviations should not be called errors as Cognitive Psychologists have demonstrated these deviations may be either valid heuristics that succeed in the environments in which humans have evolved or biases that are caused by a lack of adaptation to abstract information formats. Humans, as the cognitive psychologist and economist Herbert Simon claimed, do not usually optimize but rather satisfice, even when solving a problem. This Research Topic aims at demonstrating that these insights have had a decisive impact on Mathematics Education. We want to stress that we are concerned with the view of bounded rationality that is different from the one espoused by the heuristics and biases program. In Simon's bounded rationality and its direct descendant ecological rationality rationality is understood in terms of cognitive success in the world correspondence rather than in terms of conformity to content free norms of coherence e g transitivity
