“Everyday Use” by Alice Walker

Part I: Complete the following brief journal entry (a paragraph is acceptable) on a separate sheet of loose-leaf paper; then, staple it to the back of this paper when you turn in your work:

If you could save only one precious possession of yours from being destroyed or left behind, what would it be? Explain why this item is particularly valuable to you.

Part II: Answer each of the following questions in complete sentences.

BACKGROUND TO THE STORY

Black Pride

“Everyday Use” takes place during the 1960s, when many African Americans were discovering their heritage. The “black pride” movement, which grew out of civil rights campaigns, called upon African Americans to celebrate their African roots and affirm their cultural identity. Many adopted African clothing, hairstyles, and names; some studied African languages.

READING SKILL: MAKE INFERENCES

Because writers don’t always tell you everything you need to know about a character, you must make inferences, or logical guesses, based on story details and your own experiences. For example, you might infer that the mother in this story prefers the outdoors from her comment “A yard like this is more comfortable than most people know. . . . It is like an extended living room.” As you read, notice what the characters’ words and actions tell you about their personalities and attitudes.

1. What can you infer about the relationship between Dee and her mother based on the dream her mother (our narrator) describes at the beginning of the story?
2. What personality traits are suggested through the physical description of the narrator?
3. Explain what the following line suggests about Dee: “[She] pressed us to her with the serious ways she read, to shove us away at the moment, like dimwits, we seemed about to understand.”
