Politics and Governance of Basic Education Brian Levy, Robert Cameron, Ursula Hoadley, Vinothan Naidoo, 2018-09-21

This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 International licence. It is free to read at Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations. All over the world economic inclusion has risen to the top of the development discourse. A well performing education system is central to achieving inclusive development but the challenge of improving educational outcomes has proven to be unexpectedly difficult. Access to education has increased but quality remains low with weaknesses in governance comprising an important part of the explanation. The Politics and Governance of Basic Education explores the balance between hierarchical and horizontal institutional arrangements for the public provision of basic education. Using the vivid example of South Africa, a country that had ambitious goals at the outset of its transition from apartheid to democracy, it explores how the interaction of politics and institutions affects educational outcomes. By examining lessons learned from how South Africa failed to achieve many of its goals, it constructs an innovative alternative strategy for making process combining practical steps to achieve incremental gains to re-orient the system towards learning.

The Burden of Educational Exclusion, 2010-01-01. School was nothing but a taboo for me concludes Johannah, a young South African, after recounting her life story. Johannah is one of the early school leavers who features in this book. Figures on participation in education in Africa show that despite government agreements and policies developed under the banner of Education for All, this remains a remote goal. In several countries programmes on Universal Primary Education have improved access to education but do those who enter school remain there until they have reached a suitable level? Do they acquire enough competences at primary and secondary school to survive the tough daily life in sub-Saharan countries? What happens to children and young adults who leave school early? What measures can be taken to prevent them from doing so? This book is based on research carried out in Eastern and Southern Africa by scholars from Africa and the Netherlands who cooperated within the framework of the ESLA project. The contributions to this book reflect the exchanges and discussions which took place in this research group initiated by staff of Mzumbe University in Tanzania, Uganda, Martyrs University and the University of Groningen in the Netherlands. The group aims to go beyond figures and uncover the causes, effects and stories of the young people involved, as well as explore promising new strategies with which to address their needs. As early school leaving is not exclusively an African problem, a contribution on the Dutch situation is also included. The book concludes that exclusion from education has far-reaching effects not only for the young people involved but also for the society in which they live. The burden of educational exclusion should be the joint responsibility of developing and developed countries. The authors hope the book will contribute not only to a greater understanding of the phenomenon of early school leaving but also challenge it in terms of developing policies and programmes that can prevent educational exclusion and support those who already find themselves in such a situation.

Monitoring Child Socio-economic Rights in South Africa Erika Coetzee, Judith Streak, 2004 Links the government's efforts to realise children's basic socio-economic rights to its legal obligations to do so thereby aiming to contribute to eradicating child poverty in South Africa and ensuring children live the quality of life they are entitled to XXX
