Building Academic Language Jeff Zwiers, 2008

Many students ranging from native English speakers to recent immigrants need help in understanding and using the language of school. Language is the lifeblood of learning in all content areas and it plays a major role in academic achievement. Building Academic Language explains the functions and features of academic language that every teacher, language arts, history, math, science, teachers, etc. should know for supporting academic reading, writing, and discussion. The book includes research-based instructional and assessment activities that content teachers can use to build students' abilities to understand and describe the many abstract concepts, higher-order thinking skills, and complex relationships in a discipline. The book emphasizes an approach that builds from students' existing ways of learning and communicating, scaffolding them to think and talk as content area experts think and talk about math, science, history, and language arts. Major topics and themes include: What is academic language and how does it differ by content area? How can language building activities, discussions, small groups, etc. support content understanding? How can we build language abilities for content reading and writing, and vice versa? How can we build on students' diverse ways of understanding, learning, and communicating about the world? How can we more effectively model and scaffold academic language in our teaching and assessment?

Using RTI in Secondary Schools
Wayne A. Callender, 2014-08-06

Effective use of RTI: your road map for reaching every struggling secondary student. Learn how to use a school-wide Response to Intervention (RTI) program to identify and help at-risk students. This comprehensive guide outlines every step of planning, implementing, and maintaining an RTI program at the secondary level, including:

- Combining two leading research-based RTI approaches: Standard Protocol and Problem Solving to make the most of existing resources.
- Introducing a universal screening process that identifies at-risk students.
- Creating a comprehensive student intervention plan (iPlan) for each student.
- Using program measurement and monitoring techniques.
- Adapting RTI for Special Education programs.

Story Starters and Science Notebooking Sandy Buczynski, Kristin Fontichiaro, 2009-05-19

Story Starters and Science Notebooking: Developing Student Thinking Through Literacy and Inquiry is designed to provide a meaningful, comfortable framework in which teachers and parents can encourage elementary children to explore scientific ideas in an inquiry-oriented format. The basis for each scientific concept presented in Story Starters and Science Notebooking is embedded in a story appropriate for elementary-aged children. The activity that follows each narrative encourages learners to observe, compare, gather data, organize, or classify, and draw conclusions about the problem posed from the story. Because current scientific knowledge and understanding guide scientific investigations, background information in each chapter provides teachers with a synopsis of the scientific concept involved in the activity for that story. The story starters present a framework for inquiry which eliminates the free-wheeling, uncontrolled, and unstructured view some teachers have of inquiry. These are either original stories or familiar children's stories that ask learners to investigate a possible scientific explanation for a problem or scenario. Learners then communicate their findings in an oral, written, pictorial, or technological form back to a lead character from the story. Extension activities provide an opportunity for learners to compare their answers with what scientists already know about the world and also motivate them to frame new questions Grades 3 6 Phonological Zoo Review PAK , Grade Teacher ,1930 The Progressive Bee-keeper ,1899 The Latest and Best of TESS ,1991 Evaluating and Improving Written Expression Janice K.
